Spalding's Athletic Library

A. G. SPALDING

Anticipating the present tendency of the American people toward a healthful method of living and enjoyment, Spalding's Athletic Library was established in 1892 for the purpose of encouraging athletics in every form, not only by publishing the official rules and records pertaining to the various pastimes, but also by instructing, until to-day Spalding's Athletic Library is unique in its own particular field and has been conceded the greatest educational series on athletic and physical training subjects that has ever been compiled.

The publication of a distinct series of books devoted to athletic sports and pastimes and designed to occupy the premier place in America in its class was an early idea of Mr. A. G. Spalding, who was one of the first in America to publish a handbook devoted to athletic sports, Spalding's Official Base Ball Guide being the initial number, which was followed at intervals with other handbooks on the sports prominent in the '70s.

Spalding's Athletic Library has had the advice and counsel of Mr. A. G. Spalding in all of its undertakings, and particularly in all books devoted to the national game. This applies especially to Spalding's Official Base Ball Guide and Spalding's Official Base Ball Record, both of which receive the personal attention of Mr. A. G. Spalding, owing to his early connection with the game as the leading pitcher of the champion Boston and Chicago teams of 1872-76. His interest does not stop, however, with matters pertaining to base ball; there is not a sport that Mr. Spalding does not make it his business to become familiar with, and that the Library will always maintain its premier place, with Mr. Spalding's able counsel at hand, goes without saying.

The entire series since the issue of the first number has been under the direct personal supervision of Mr. James E. Sullivan, President of the American Sports Publishing Company, and the total series of consecutive numbers reach an aggregate of considerably over three hundred, included in which are many "annuals," that really constitute the history of their particular sport in America year by year, back copies of which are even now eagerly sought for, constituting as they do the really first authentic records of events and official rules that have ever been consecutively compiled.

When Spalding's Athletic Library was founded, seventeen years ago, track and field athletics were practically unknown outside the larger colleges and a few athletic clubs in the leading cities, which gave occasional meets, when an entry list of 250 competitors was a subject of comment; golf was known only by a comparatively few persons; lawn tennis had some vogue and base ball was practically the only established field sport, and that in a professional way; basket ball had just been invented; athletics for the schoolboy—and schoolgirl—were almost unknown, and an advocate of class contests in athletics in the schools could not get a hearing. To-day we find the greatest body of athletes in the world is the Public Schools Athletic League of Greater New York, which has had an entry list at its annual games of over two thousand, and in whose "elementary series" in base ball last year 106 schools competed for the trophy emblematic of the championship.

While Spalding's Athletic Library cannot claim that the rapid growth of athletics in this country is due to it solely, the fact cannot be denied that the books have had a great deal to do with its encouragement, by printing the official rules and instructions for playing the various games at a nominal price, within the reach of everyone, with the sole object that its series might be complete and the one place where a person could look with absolute certainty for the particular book in which he might be interested.

In selecting the editors and writers for the various books, the leading authority in his particular line has been obtained, with the result that no collection of books on athletic subjects can compare with Spalding's Athletic Library for the prominence of the various authors and their ability to present their subjects in a thorough and practical manner.

A short sketch of a few of those who have edited some of the leading numbers of Spalding's Athletic Library is given herewith:

JAMES E. SULLIVAN

President American Sports Publishing Company; entered the publishing house of Frank Leslie in 1878, and has been connected continuously with the publishing business since then and also as athletic editor of various New York papers; was a competing athlete; one of the organizers of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States; has been actively on its board of governors since its organization until the present time, and President for two successive terms; has attended every championship meeting in America since 1879 and has officiated in some capacity in connection with American amateur championships track and field games for nearly twenty-five years; assistant American director Olympic Games, Paris, 1900; director Pan-American Exposition athletic department, 1901; chief department physical culture Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904; secretary American Committee Olympic Games, at Athens, 1906; honorary director of Athletics at Jamestown Exposition, 1907; secretary American Committee Olympic Games, at London, 1908; member of the Pastime A. WALTER CAMP

For quarter of a century Mr. Walter Camp of Yale has occupied a leading position in college athletics. It is immaterial what organization is suggested for college athletics, or for the betterment of conditions, insofar as college athletics is concerned, Mr. Camp has always played an important part in its conferences, and the great interest in and high plane of college sport to-day, are undoubtedly due more to Mr. Camp than to any other individual. Mr. Camp has probably written more on college athletics than any other writer and the leading papers and magazines of America are always anxious to secure his expert opinion on foot ball, track and field athletics, base ball and rowing. Mr. Camp has grown up with Yale athletics and is a part of Yale's remarkable athletic system. While he has been designated as the "Father of Foot Ball," it is a well known fact that during his college career Mr. Camp was regarded as one of the best players that ever represented Yale on the base ball field, so when we hear of Walter Camp as a foot ball expert we must also remember his remarkable knowledge of the game of base ball, of which he is a great admirer. Mr. Camp has edited Spalding's Official Foot Ball Guide since it was first published, and also the Spalding Athletic Library book on How to Play Foot Ball. There is certainly no man in American college life better qualified to write for Spalding's Athletic Library than Mr. Camp.

Review of Season 1909-1910

BY THE EDITOR.

GREATEST EVER.

Almost every report received begins with the words "Greatest season we ever had," or words to that effect, followed by a detailed account which justified the optimistic statement.

These reports show the basis of optimism to be one or more of the following conditions: Increased number of teams playing; number of organized leagues; closer observance of rules and the resultant cleaner games; better officials, and increased attendance.

Notwithstanding all this advance, there are, however, a sufficient number of places where they still misinterpret the rules and spirit of the game to keep us all busy with our steering gear guiding the game into the proper channel.

The National A. A. U. Basket Ball Committee keeps in pretty close touch with the game throughout the country, and the Editor wishes to take this opportunity on behalf of the committee to thank the loyal individuals for their untiring support of the principles for which the committee has always stood and still stands.

The committee realizes that those who have stood for the clean, snappy, passing game have done so often at the risk of personal popularity; in other words, their stand has cost something, and for that very reason it is worth something.

The committee regrets they cannot know by name every such person, so they could address them a letter expressing the high regard in which they are held, and setting forth their appreciation of each man's value to the cause of clean, regulated sport.

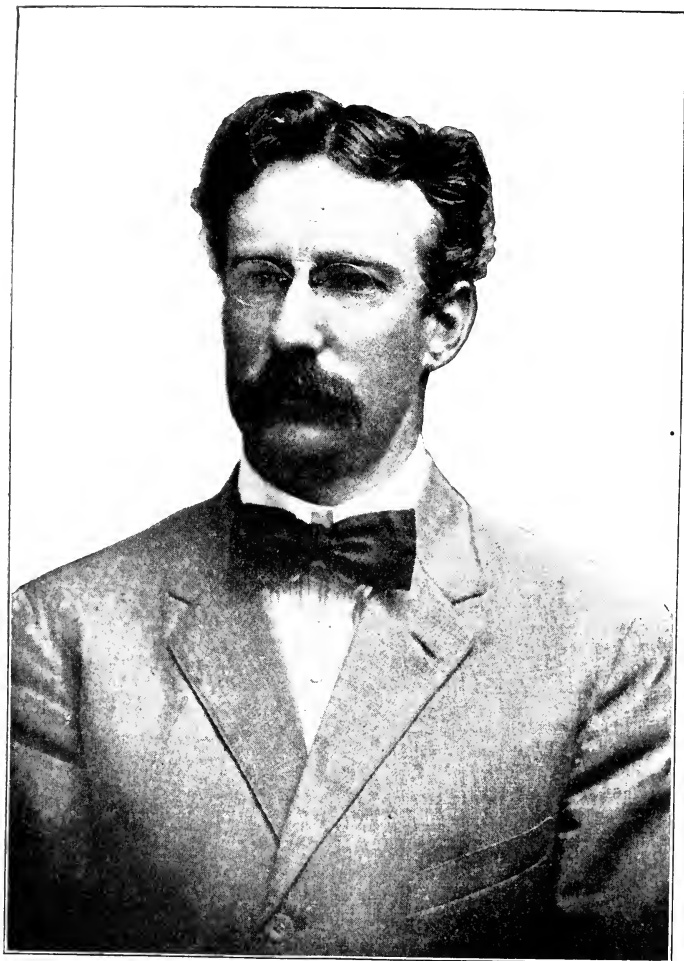

I had the pleasure of meeting many of these men on my visits over the country during the past season, and hope to renew their acquaintance the coming season and add many more to my list.

ORGANIZED VERSUS UNORGANIZED.

On the whole, organized basket ball met with the usual success and the unorganized kind simply repeated the errors of past seasons.

Simply because there is an organization does not mean that success will follow, for the best plan of organization can easily be ruined by incompetent or lax officials.

Where competent men were selected to guide the organization last season success crowned their efforts.

GEORGE T. HEPBRON,
Editor Spalding's Official Basket Ball Guide.

LEAGUES.

One of the best forms of organization is through leagues, which may take one or more of the following forms:

League of teams within one organization, for example, by companies, as in the National Guard; among the various athletic clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s, settlements, Sunday schools, parochial schools, high or grammar schools, etc., of one city; where the city is too small for this a league may be formed from teams of each different organization. Leagues may also be formed between towns or cities.

Whatever the plan, organized ball is far superior to the so-called independent team plan.

INDEPENDENT TEAMS.

Volumes might be written regarding the trouble experienced in the past under this plan.

The team is often exploited by the manager for his personal benefit; dates are canceled at the last minute; difficulty is experienced in keeping good players from migrating to some other team just before an important game; professionalism, which bars players from future participation in their school or college games; difficulty in maintaining age and weight agreements; disturbance of games by hoodlums in the audience; free-for-all interpretation of rules, etc.

The organization of a league ought to overcome all these annoyances.

The Public Athletic League of Baltimore is a shining example in this direction. A description of this league may be found in this book, written by Dr. Meanwell, the director.

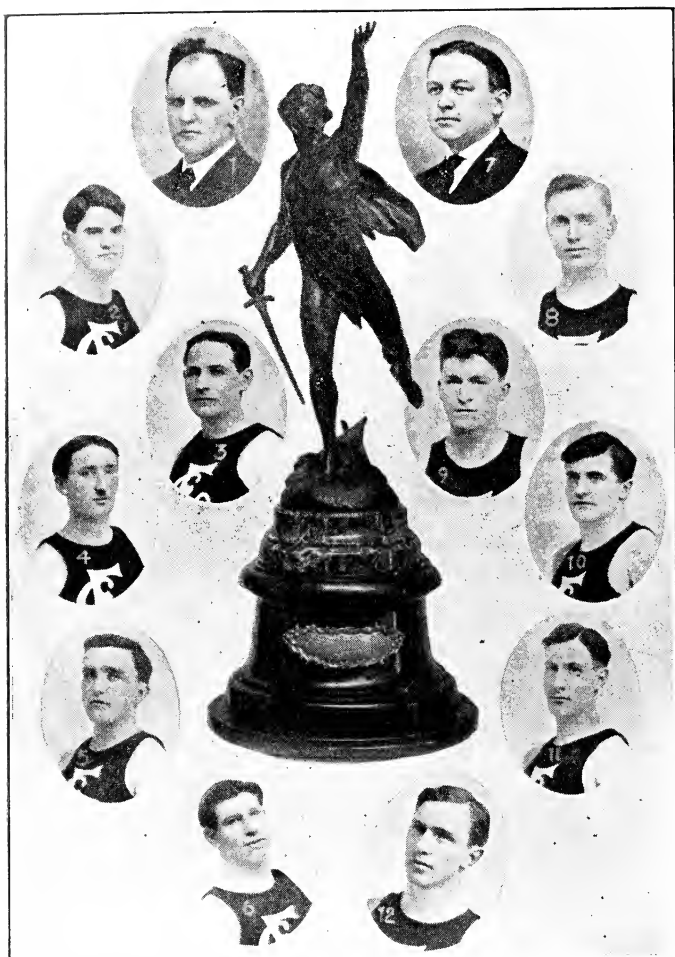

SCHOOL FOR OFFICIALS.

Competent officials is still the problem, and, strange as it may seem, everybody seems to wait for everybody else to develop them.

It is common to hear leaders say, "We can't get good officials," without it ever occurring to them that they have done nothing to remedy the situation.

As stated in this publication many times before, the only way to get officials is to get them, and one way which has been tried and proved successful is a school for the same in each organization. This seems so simple I wonder why more organizations have not tried it.

I say now, and without the least fear of successful contradiction, that if each organization interested in clean sport in a given city will develop two good officials, the basket ball situation would be changed in one season from trouble to pleasure.

Winners A. G. Spalding & Bros. Trophy National A.A.U. Championship, 1910.

I visited a certain city last fall and met with the leaders and players of the game, and together we set up a workable plan to put the game on a basis which would meet with the approval of our committee and the clean sport exponents of that city.

We worked out all the plan in detail, talked to officials and players, had the strongest kind of support from the local press, but it never went into effect. What the trouble was I don't know, but nothing was done.

It is to be hoped the plan will be taken up and pushed through this season.

SPECTATORS.

Many reports show large increase in number of spectators; this no doubt was brought about by cleaner games.

Spectators, as a rule, prefer the open-passing game, so they can see what is going on and where the ball is always in sight.

The average spectator attends to see the game and not interpret the rules, about which they know little and care less.

If you give them a good, clean game, full of quick, spectacular passing, they will enjoy it better than the spectacular play which lacks brains and emphasizes brawn.

Both brains and brawn are needed, but the former is too often absent, to the detriment of the players, game and spectators.

PLAYING FLOORS.

The teams not attached to any organization have serious difficulty in securing floors to play off their games.

Except in exceptional cases these teams would be better off if they joined some organization and played their games in the latter's building.

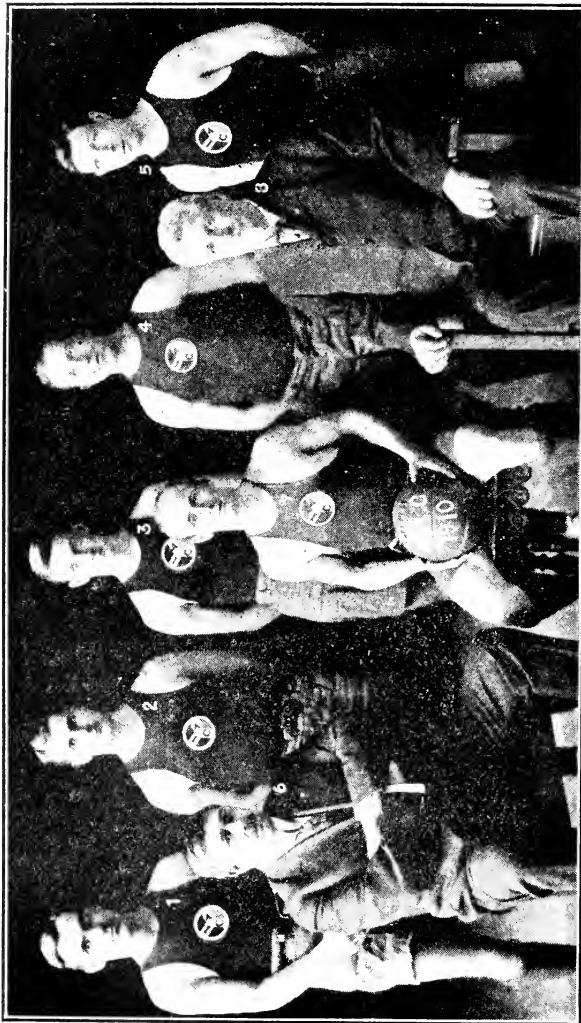

In some instances this plan is not feasible, but in most cases, if the team has played decent ball and are willing to abide by the rules of the institution, they will have no trouble in finding a home.

SOCIAL SIDE OF GAME.

Where the game is played for "the fun of it" and a good organization is back of the team, all games may be made to contribute to the social life of the section where they are played.

To make the social feature prominent the games must begin on time, the players must be gentlemen, the officials efficient, and a good spirit prevail among both players and spectators.

If at the end of the game the spectators collect in groups and carry on animated discussions about how this official acted unfairly; that the player had a right to hit the other; that the timekeeper allowed the game to continue after time was up so his favorite team could win, and other such elevating (?) topics, the social side of the game would result in the spectators in some instances getting entirely too sociable, and might result in their having to be ejected from the building.

Games have been conducted during the past season in which pleasant social relations were evident to the most casual observer; in fact, one report states "the social side was prominent throughout the season."

AMATEUR, SEMI-PROFESSIONALS, PROFESSIONALS.

The word "semi-professional" is used to indicate teams which play one or two paid players, but in the laws of amateur athletics no such word exists; a team is either amateur or professional, and managers who mix their teams make each player a professional.

Space does not permit me to go into a lengthy explanation of the "amateur" definition, but this one note I wish to sound: If a player receives money other than for legitimate expenses, carfare, meals, etc., he thereby becomes a professional. It also bars him from all amateur athletic games.

CAUTION.—Maintain your amateur standing strictly, but if you decide to become a professional be man enough to announce it publicly, so people may know where you stand, and don't sail under false colors by claiming to be an amateur when you are a professional. An honest professional is far more to be respected than a dishonest amateur or one who claims to be an amateur but who is a professional.

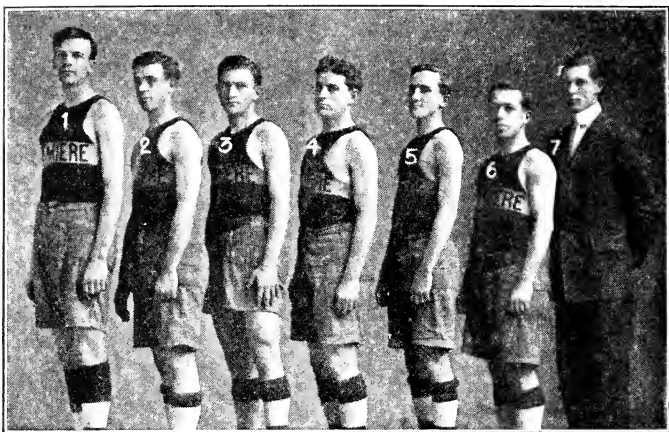

IN THE RANKS.

The game was played to a larger extent last year among the soldiers and sailors than ever before, and report has it that it is a "life-saver" to the men of the regular army.

CHAMPIONSHIPS.

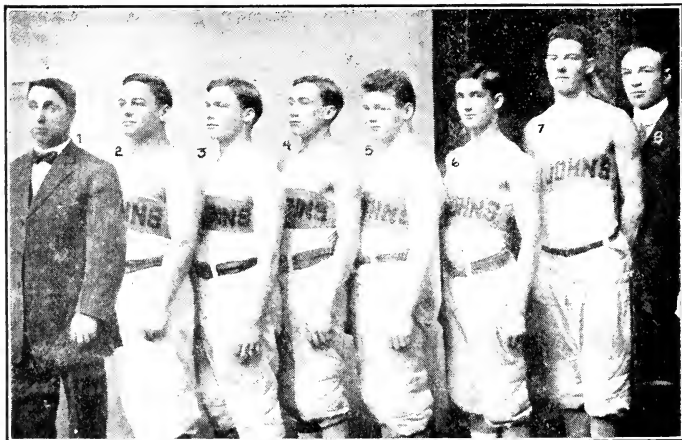

Hold a championship at the end of the season, as this produces a greater respect for the rules, as teams will follow the interpretation of the rules throughout the season that will be used during the championship.

If the officials for the championship can be selected early in the season and used for local games it will tend to keep the game clean the whole season.

National A. A. U. Basket Ball Championships

BY CHARLES A. DEAN,
Chairman A. A. U. Basket Ball Championship Committee.

Not since the Olympian Basket Ball Championships held at St. Louis in 1904 (at which the Buffalo German team won the World's Olympian Championship) has a basket ball tournament been played off where there was so much at stake as the National Championship.

The superiority of the National rules, as set forth in the Official Basket Ball Guide for 1909-10, were shown over the other styles of play used in some parts of the country.

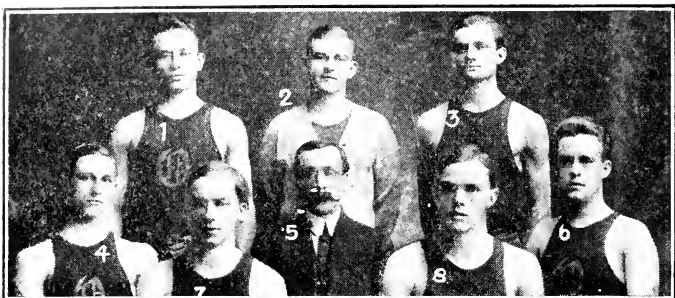

The committee in charge of this championship started as early as December to notify every team in the country that could be reached, that the Championship of the United States had been awarded to Chicago by the National Basket Ball Committee.

In January the First Regiment (Illinois National Guard) Athletic Association was induced to take the tournament, to be played in their spacious armory, the best adapted hall and most centrally located for basket ball in Chicago.

A canvass was then made by mail of all the teams in the country known to the committee, with local reputation, so as to have representative teams from all over the country. As it finally turned out, the seventeen teams that entered represented the very best from the territories where they lived.

The Oswego (N. Y.) Normal School had defeated every team in their section of New York State, and came on to the tournament with a picked team and a large delegation of rooters. The Premiere Lodge team of St. Louis, Mo., were considered the best in the Western Association A.A.U. The Hamiltons of Two Rivers, Wis., came with a good record behind them. The Company F (Wisconsin National Guard) of Portage, Wis., had gone through the season without a defeat, and had won from every team in the State of any class. The team of the St. John's Military Academy of Delafield, Wis., had a good reputation and gave reason for the committee to think they would make a strong bid for the title. The "Gold Medals" of Hoopston, Ill., had won the Championship of Eastern Illinois and Western Indiana and came to Chicago with a reputation for clever playing. The Company G (Ohio National Guard) team of Ada, Ohio, were the National Guard Champions of Ohio and were considered to have an excellent chance of going home with a prize. The Y. M. C. A. team of Kewanee, Ill., were well thought of, as they had a good local record. Company I (Wisconsin National Guard), Superior, Wis., completed the Wisconsin contingent and were expected to give most of the teams a good run. North Dakota was represented by the Grand Forks Y.M.C.A., and little was known of their ability, except that the Northwest always has teams that give a good account of themselves.

Locally, Chicago was represented by her strongest teams. The Illinois Athletic Club, Central Association A.A.U. Champions for 1908-09, which they won at Detroit, Mich., by defeating the best teams in the association. They also won first place in the Inter-City League, 1909-10, comprising Chicago and nearby towns, which was the principal league of this territory, composed of the Class A teams. This team was considered favorite and was doped to win the tournament.

The Hull House Settlement team of Chicago, which landed second place in the Inter-City League, was also one of the entries, as was the Mercury Club of Hull House, another aggregation of fast players from this well-known settlement house.

The First Regiment (Illinois National Guard) Basket Ball team, which landed third place in the Inter-City League, was entered to uphold the reputation of the home floor. The other local teams were the Ravenswoods, one of the best in the city, and Irving Park Athletic Association, which had two teams entered. Unfortunately one of these had to withdraw, on account of the team drawing an afternoon game.

Owing to there being sixteen teams to start play, it was necessary to have afternoon games. The drawings for the first day's play were as follows:

THURSDAY, MARCH 17, 1910.

2 P. M. Game No. 1—Hamiltons of Two Rivers, Wis., vs. Company G of Ada, Ohio. (This game postponed to Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.)

10 P. M. Game No. 8—First Regiment A.A., Chicago, vs. St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis.

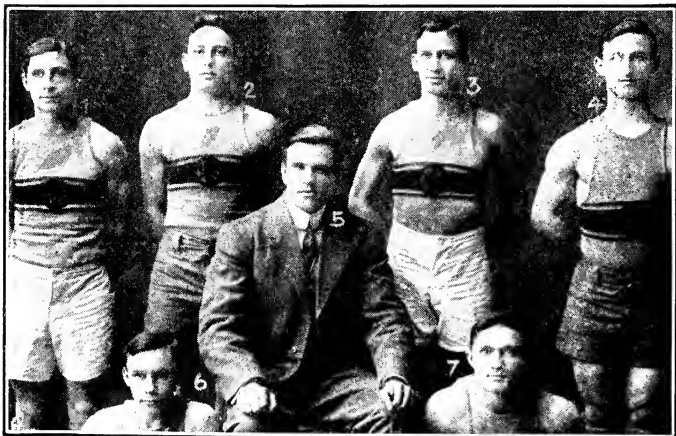

The first game between the Hamiltons of Two Rivers, Wis., and Company G, Ada, Ohio, was postponed to Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, owing to the inability of the Hamilton team to arrive until Friday morning.

Game No. 2 on the schedule started the tournament with a hard-fought game between the Ravenswood team and Company I of Superior, Wis. The teams were well matched and put up a hard fight. The Company I boys led at the end of the first half, 19 to 17, but were nosed out at the finish of the game, 31 to 29. The score:

The first evening game brought together the Mercury Club of Hull House and the speedy Premiere Lodge team of St. Louis, Mo. The St. Louis boys showed that they had one of the fastest teams in the tournament. Most of the men were light of weight, but made up for it in speed, as well as playing a heady game. The Premiers started ahead at the call of time and were never behind at any time during the game. Roe, of the winning team, played a star game at forward, scoring the majority of the points. The game ended 50 to 27 in favor of St. Louis. The score:

Game No. 5, between the Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago and Company F of Portage, Wis., was worthy of a fight for first honors, but unfortunately these two teams were drawn against each other by the luck of the draw. According to basket ball critics the I. A. C. was expected to win, but were fairly played off their feet. Company F had several old University of Wisconsin players in Harper, Shepard and Swinholt, all big, rangy men who outweighed the I. A. C. boys ten pounds to the man. This game was a hard fight throughout, but the score shows the relative ability of the two teams, 26 to 15. The score:

The first game between Oswego Normals and St. John's Military Academy was without doubt one of the hardest fought of the whole series. It was nip and tuck from the start to when the pistol was fired for the finish of the game. In game No. 11 another local team was put out of the running when the speedy Premières of St. Louis disposed of the Hull House team to the tune of 43 to 30. 3 P. M. Game No. 14—Premiere Lodge vs. Ravenswoods.

The first afternoon game was between Company F of Portage and St. John's Military Academy. The Cadets were right on edge for this contest, the close game of the night before, in which they defeated the fast Oswego five by one point, giving them confidence against their larger and more experienced opponents. Portage put their substitute center, Ebert, in to start the game and also to give

Sheppard a rest for the evening game, but with the score 18 to 16 against them at the end of the first half, owing to the fast work of Atwood and his team-mates, the Portage manager decided to finish the game with the regular line-up, which probably saved them the championship. The final score of 34 to 31 in Company F's favor showed that this was one of the best contested games of the tournament. The score:

The other afternoon game, No. 14 in the series, although a fast game, was not as close as the first game, although some sensational basket ball was displayed. The accurate tossing of goals by the two St. Louis forwards, Roe and Hardin, was excellent. Wallers of the Ravenswoods was principal point-getter for his team, making four field baskets and tossing fifteen free throws out of twenty-four tried. Roe nearly equalled this by throwing twelve out of twenty-one chances. The teams were beginning to show the strain of the hard games every day, especially the St. Louis players. The game ended 42 to 34 in the Premiers favor. The score:

At 8.30 Saturday night the Ravenswoods, the only local team to stick to the final day, were matched with the St. John's team for third place. As was expected, this was anybody's game from start to finish, with perhaps a slight advantage in the first half for Ravenswood, as the period ended 11 to 9, with the Cadets on the short end. In the second period the local team made more penalties, which counted for points, and with Atwood's accurate tossing, combined with the excellent shooting of several field goals by the Cadet guards, defeated the home team by the narrow margin of one point. The final game of the tournament to pick the best team in the United States as well as the runner-up or next best, was not as fast as would have taken place had both teams been fresh and in good condition, but the strenuous games of the first two days and the games played that afternoon had played havoc with the players on both teams. Portage came on the floor with three players with sprained ankles. Swinholt was in such bad shape he could hardly hobble around, while there were numerous minor injuries among the other players. The Premiers were without the services of their star forward, Hardin, and it was greatly regretted by all present, as he was a game little player. The other players on the team were pretty well banged up. This condition of both teams resulted from the hard and fast playing which characterized the tournament throughout, and roughness was not as apparent as is usually found in championships with so much at stake. It is regretted that these two teams could not be brought together with a complete line-up and all men in good condition. It would make a game worth going miles to see. The final score was 36 to 14, with Portage in possession of the National trophy and medals, but with the opposing side deserving great credit for the fight they put up. The score:

All in all, the tournament was about the most successful ever held and served to make more interesting*and popular the great game of basket ball to the public at large. It was the unanimous opinion of both spectators and players that the work of the referee and umpire, Thomas E. Byrne and George P. Lorentzen, assisted by A. S. Wengierski, was excellent, there being no fault whatever to find with their work, while the timers and scorers also came in for their share of praise. The press-end was handled to perfection by such men as Walter Eckersall, Drum and Prather of the local newspapers. It is difficult in a large tournament to satisfy everybody, but in this series the A. A. U. Committee had much to feel proud of by receiving many letters similar to the following.

MY DEAR MR. DEAN: Just a word to thank you and those associated with you in running off the Basket Ball Championships at the First Regiment Armory.

Taking everything into consideration, I cannot see where there could have been any improvement in any department. The events were run off in most excellent order and the officials as efficient and just as possible.

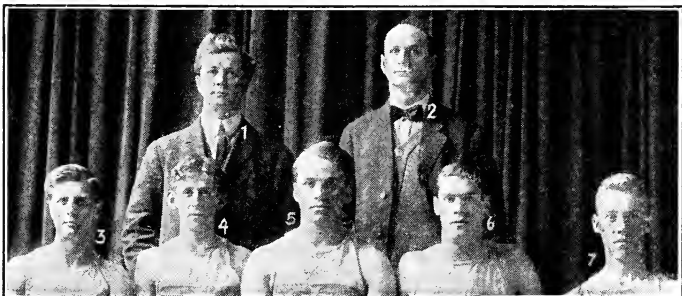

While my men are very much disappointed at not having captured first honors, they feel that, in view of accidents, etc., sustained, that they made a mighty good showing, as do I.

All the boys asked to be remembered to you.

Yours very truly,

It is to be hoped that the National Championships will be held every year hereafter, to help the basket ball game retain its major position in indoor sport.

The Public Schools Athletic League of Greater New York

BY C. WARD CRAMPTON,

Director of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Greater New York.

During the season of 1909-10 the Public Schools Athletic League of New York City conducted its sixth annual basket ball tournaments for both the high and the elementary schools. The tournaments were more successful than any of those held in previous years. There were many teams entered, over a hundred in all; clean, sportsmanlike games were played, large crowds attended, and out of almost five hundred games played but two were protested.

This success was due largely to the corps of efficient umpires and referees who were assigned to the games and the very fine co-operation they received from the teachers and players in making the games free from undesirable abuses and unsportsmanlike actions.

Before the tournament started a conference of coaches and officials was held. George T. Hepbron presided and interpreted the playing rules. Discussions were held and a unanimous understanding reached as to how the rules should be interpreted and enforced. Many times during the tournament questions arose as to certain rules and immediately reference would be made to the decisions reached at the conference.

In the high schools tournament the rule was adopted whereby the officials were empowered to award a point for a foul without try for goal. As the season progressed it became evident that the rule, although a good one for securing clean play, resulted in many cases as an injustice and was too severe, particularly when a Class A foul was committed. Upon recommendation of the committee in charge the rule has since been amended, so that hereafter a point will be awarded without try for goal only when a Class B foul is committed. When a Class A foul is committed the opposing team must try for a goal.

The game has become more and more popular with our boys and they now regard it as a "major sport." To become a member of the school team and help to win the City Championship is considered by the boys as one of the highest athletic achievements.

Unlike base ball, it was invented and perfected wholly by Americans, and for indoors at least it is the great American game.

HIGH SCHOOLS TOURNAMENT

BY DR. A. P. WAX.

The Public Schools Athletic League of New York City has conducted a basket ball tournament every season, since 1901, but the tournaments of the past two years have been especially worthy of note because the so-called P. S. A. L. rule has been in force during that time.

By this rule a point is awarded for every foul to the offended side.

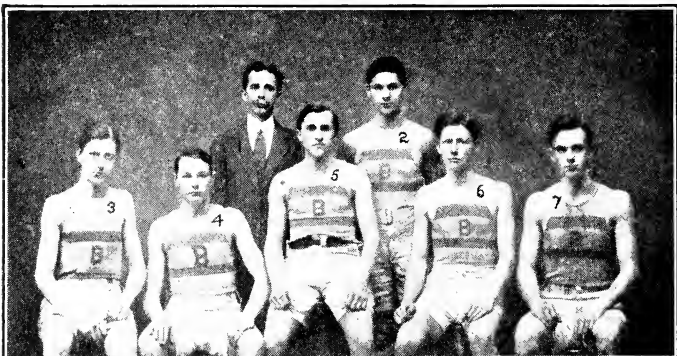

This penalty has largely eliminated rough play and holding from the contests, and scientific team-play and passing have been developed to a very high degree, so that the games have become more interesting and wider interest has resulted.

The rule has met with the opposition and criticism which every innovation receives. At any rate the high school games committee believes that it has accomplished the object for which it was designed, and school basket ball has made great strides in these two years.

The games committee will repeal this rule at the spring meeting and probably return to the A. A. U. game entire. It is to be hoped that the coaches and players can maintain the same high standard of play without the operation of such a severe penalty.

Stuyvesant High School succeeded in retaining the championship and possession of the Dodge trophy which it had won the year before, but not without a hard struggle with DeWitt Clinton, Commerce and Newtown High Schools.

Building upon a foundation of three of their last year's champion team, all three having been picked as "all-high school players," Stuyvesant started the season strong and was never headed, being able to defeat the best of the New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia schools, as well as the freshmen teams of Columbia, Yale and C. C. N. Y.

Newtown's team was a new one in the P. S. A. L. contest and proved to be a dark horse. As the tournament progressed these players showed the effect of good coaching, and finished second, and later won handily the local Queens Borough championship.

High School of Commerce had also a veteran team, and started the season with four straight victories, but later lost its efficiency in scoring and was beaten by three teams.

DeWitt Clinton had a five of clever individual players who held their opponents to low scores, but lacked team-work in the beginning of the tournament, the offense not being well organized.

Eastern District played a rather erratic game, and seemed to depend too much upon their star center, as they lost twice while he was temporarily out of the game.

Boys' High was unfortunate in beginning the season with a disorganized team, and got started so late as not to be a factor in the championship.

Morris, Far Rockaway and Erasmus Hall fives were new to the tournament and far below the calibre usually shown by the teams from these institutions.

A great deal might be said of the value of the strict supervision exercised by the officials of the P. S. A. L. The game has benefited greatly by the careful organization of the tournament, which extended through nine weeks, and also by the publicity obtained through the P. S. A. L.

The officials were assigned early and met with the coaches before the season began for mutual understanding and discussion. At this meeting the rules were expounded by George T. Hepbron, and the result was shown in better harmony and more uniform rulings, as well as a clearer, more scientific standard of play.

It is to be hoped that every one of the seventeen high schools in Greater New York will maintain a five next season and make the

NEW YORK HIGH SCHOOL STAR FIVE.

From the individual records given above a star five would consist of the following: Forwards—Johnson (Newtown), and Friedland (Stuyvesant). Center—Long (Stuyvesant). Guards—Dowling (Stuyvesant), and Baer (Boys').

From observation of the tournament and the style of play of the individuals, and to obtain the most effective scoring and defensive team, the following line-up would undoubtedly give excellent results:

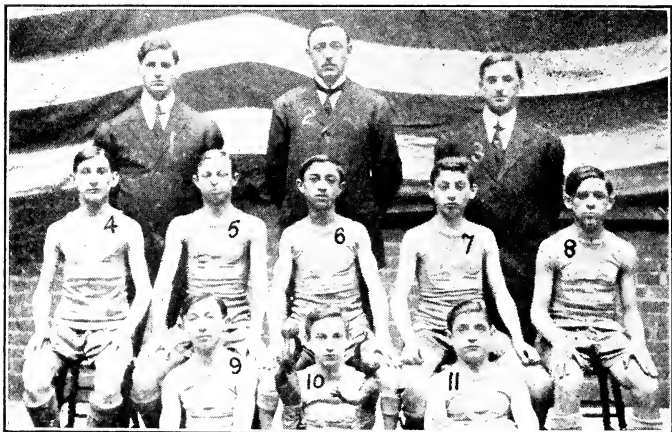

Forwards—Johnson (Newtown), and Friedland (Stuyvesant). Center—Fraenznick (Eastern District). Guards—Dowling (Stuyvesant), and Levy (Clinton).

For the forward positions Johnson and Friedland were the universal choice. Both were very speedy men, as their records show, and the former was especially so at evading his guard. Friedland was the more aggressive and his work up and down the field has seldom been equalled.

JUNIOR TEAM, PUBLIC SCHOOL 62, MANHATTAN.

Long, Fraenznick, Leslie and Simonson were chosen by various papers as center. Long's record is the best, although Leslie and Fraenznick run very close to him. The latter is a fast and experienced player and clever at shooting, and was the largest factor in winning the Eastern District's games.

For the guards' position the first choice of all was Dowling. His record places him above any running guard the writer has seen in recent years. As player and captain on two championship teams he has an enviable record. The other place is hard to fill, on account of the claims of many players. Baer has a fine record but played the running guard. Hoops stands high among the standing guards, especially as he paired with a guard who played all over the court. Archibald and Runge were also mentioned for the position. Levy was picked for his undoubted defensive ability in covering his man and his experience and knowledge of the game.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS TOURNAMENT

BY ROBERT B. BRODIE.

This tournament, one of the most successful held under the auspices of the Public Schools Athletic League, started in October, 1909, and ended in January, 1910. The tournament was divided into two divisions according to weight, the Junior Division limit being 95 pounds and the Senior Division limit 125 pounds. In all there were almost 100 teams entered from the public schools of the city.

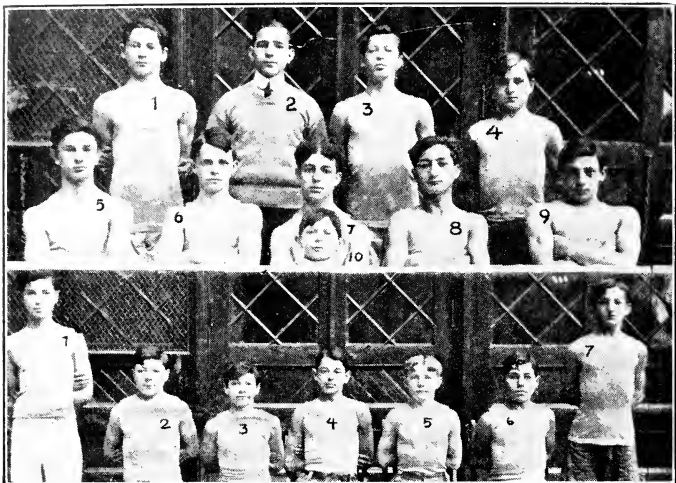

The city is divided into twenty-five District Athletic Leagues, each one of which held a series of games to decide the Junior and Senior championships of its organization. These competitions were in charge of the separate leagues. In many cases medals and district trophies were awarded the winners to stimulate competition.

As soon as the District Championships were decided a series of games were arranged to pick the Borough champions. These games were in charge of the borough representative on the City Basket Ball Committee assisted by the teachers in charge of the competing teams. In most cases an elimination series of games was arranged. These games were all hotly contested and the winners did not emerge from the conflict without a very hard struggle. In some cases extra periods of play had to be ordered to decide the games. The winners in each borough received the borough medals and trophies. The tournament was now at the stage where each borough had its junior and senior basket ball champions, viz.:

	Junior Champions.	Senior Champions.
Borough of Manhattan.....	P. S. No. 62	P. S. No. 62
Borough of Brooklyn.....	P. S. No. 109	P. S. No. 109
Borough of Bronx.....	P. S. No. 42	P. S. No. 25
Borough of Queens.....	P. S. No. 19	P. S. No. 17
Borough of Richmond.....	P. S. No. 89	P. S. No. 83

The teams of the following named schools deserve mention because of their fine work: P. S. No. 19, Manhattan; P. S. No. 51, Manhattan; P. S. No. 64, Manhattan; P. S. No. 43, Brooklyn; P. S. No. 84, Brooklyn.

The City Committee on Basket Ball, composed of Messrs. Robert B. Brodie, Manhattan, Chairman; Louis Abelson, Brooklyn; Alfred Rado, Bronx; N. Camgan, Queens, and R. Berquist, Richmond, arranged a series of games to decide the City Championships.

Champions 25th District Athletic League, 1909-10.

In the first series Manhattan met Bronx and Brooklyn met Queens, (Richmond withdrew) and the winners of these two sets of games met in the finals for championship of the city. These games were played in armories in the presence of thousands of rooters from the different schools. Their enthusiasm was of such a nature as to cause fear that the roofs of the armories might be blown away. Organized cheering was also a very noticeable feature. The games were all well played and proved conclusively that the "Elementary School Boy" knew the game and had received careful coaching.

The results of the games were as follows:

Junior games, semi-finals, Manhattan vs. Bronx—P. S. No. 62, Manhattan, 65; P. S. No. 42, Bronx, 9. Brooklyn vs. Queens—P. S. No. 109, Brooklyn, 12; P. S. No. 89, Queens, 8.

Senior games, Manhattan vs. Bronx—P. S. No. 62, Manhattan, 53; P. S. No. 25, Bronx, 6; Brooklyn vs. Queens—P. S. No. 109, Brooklyn, 21; P. S. No. 83, Queens, 10.

FINAL CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES.

Junior Division—P. S. No. 62, Manhattan, 34; P. S. No. 109, Brooklyn, 14.

Senior Division—P. S. No. 62, Manhattan, 43; P. S. No. 109, Brooklyn, 1.

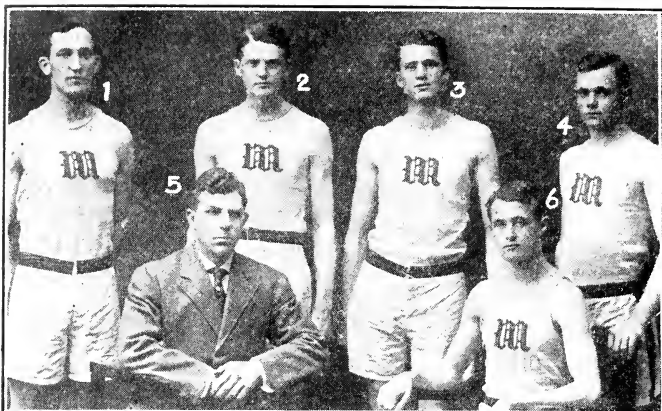

The final game for the championship was played before the biggest crowd of schoolboy enthusiasts that has witnessed any scholastic activity since the deciding of the interborough base ball championship, the teams of Public School No. 62 of Manhattan defeating the junior and senior teams of Public School No. 109 of Brooklyn, in the Forty-seventh Regiment Armory, for the elementary schools basket ball championship titles of Greater New York. The juniors won by a score of 38 to 14 and the series by a score of 43 to 1. The contests demonstrated the unusual skill of the youngsters who sport the Blue and White of No. 62, and proved that they stand without peers as basket ball players in the Elementary School League.

The victors, who hail from the lower East Side, played a sterling game, their exhibition of passing, interference and accuracy in caging the ball, being without a flaw. The junior game was by far the better of the two contests. Both teams were well matched, and, as a result, the score was close until the last eight minutes of play, when the Manhattanites let loose a whirlwind of speed and caged seven baskets. When the game first started the outlook was rather dreary for the victors, as the Brooklynites displayed a flash of speed that took their overconfident rivals by surprise.

Before the Manhattan-Bronx-Richmond champions were aware of it the fast little quintet from No. 109 scored a goal and a foul. The No. 62 lads had some difficulty in rounding into their proper form for a few minutes, but after they became accustomed to the floor they cut loose with an exhibition of passing that bewildered the youngsters from across the bridge. With Finkelstein and Forman playing as they had seldom played, the Manhattanites forged to the front, and ended the period with the score 14 to 11 in their favor.

In the second period, Fromowitz, the speedy little player of No. 109, put his mates a point to the good by scoring two goals in rapid succession. This advantage was not long to be enjoyed, as the victors soon started shooting the ball into the basket from almost every part of the court.

The senior contest was a walkover for the Manhattan boys, the Brooklynites failing to score a single field goal during the game. Goldman, the clever center of the victors, was the hero of the game. His accuracy enabled him to cage the ball from the field twelve times. The line-ups:

The winner of the Senior Division received similar medals and the possession of the Pratt Trophy for one year.

This tournament is the seventh held by the Public Schools Athletic League and the winners to date are the following schools, noticeably all from Manhattan:

Public Schools Athletic League of Troy, N. Y.

By M. J. KLING.

Secretary Games Committee, Public Schools Athletic League.

Basket ball has been played in the grammar schools of Troy for the past four years. At the beginning few boys knew even the first principles of the game. But the activity of the league has created interest, not only among the boys but their parents also. It has also helped the high school team as most of the players on the high school basket ball teams were once members of the grammar school teams.

One of the most successful basket ball tournaments ever held by the league took place during the winter and early spring of 1910. The teams were given a preliminary season of practice under competent instructors, so that when the regular tournament opened all the teams were well posted on the fine points of the game. Public School No. 10 won the championship, finishing the season without a defeat, although they had one of the smallest teams in the league. Roland Lasher, the captain of P. S. No. 10, was the best all-around player among the boys. His accurate throws from the field and skillful passing helped his team materially.

The result of the tournament was as follows:

	W.	L.	PC.		W.	L.	PC.
P. S. No. 10.....	6	0	1000	P. S. No. 14.....	3	3	.500

The Public Athletic League of Baltimore

DR. W. E. MEANWELL, SUPERVISOR.

The Second Annual Basket Ball Tournament of the Public Athletic League was held during February and March for members of the Gymnasia of its Institutional Section and was an unqualified success. As last year, there were four classes determined on the basis of age and weight, respectively. Boys not 16 years of age on October 1, the date of the opening of the indoor season, were classed as juniors. Those 16 years or over at that time were seniors. The juniors in turn were classified as lightweights if under 95 pounds and as heavyweights if over 95 pounds and not 125 pounds in weight. Senior lightweights were under 115 pounds, while senior heavyweights were unlimited in that respect.

Rules of eligibility requires that a boy must be a member in good standing of the gymnasium he represents for at least thirty days previous to making entry and have had an attendance record of at least fifty per cent of all class nights. Furthermore, he must have passed an examination at the hands of an examiner appointed by the league as to his physical fitness to participate in competitive athletics. As a result of these examinations the entry of eleven (11) boys were rejected, post entries being permitted to fill the vacancies thus caused on the teams. The wisdom of such a ruling has been amply demonstrated by the experiences of the past season.

Seven men were entered on each team and in the case of the champions were awarded the Public Athletic League die medals. An oak shield team trophy emblematic of the championship was also awarded to the winners in each class. The losing team in each game was eliminated from further competition, winners playing off until but one unbeaten team remained in each respective class, these teams of course being awarded the championships.

The preliminary games were all held in neutral institutional gymnasia, the Public Athletic League instructor in charge at that particular place acting as referee. Through the courtesy of its officials the Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was the scene of the final contests and Assistant Director Leake, in a very competent manner, acted as referee.

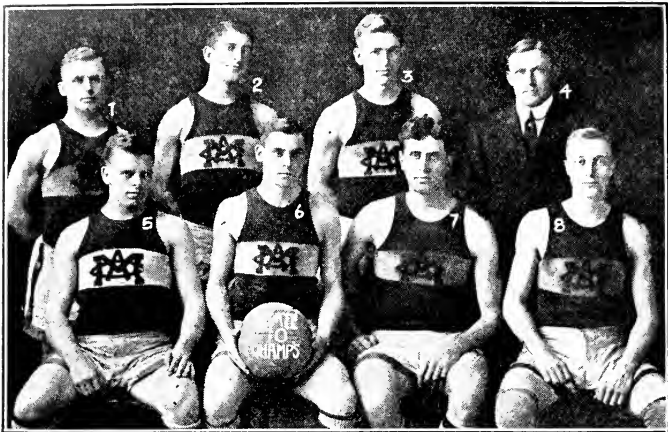

Time of all junior halves were 15 minutes, senior halves 20 minutes, with not less than 10 minutes' intermission.

Fifty-two teams, representing seventeen Institutional Gymnasia, made entry, as against thirty-eight last year. Many of them were newly organized for the purpose, and the promotion and spread of the game is one of the results obtained.

The Junior lightweight teams numbered seventeen, as follows: Epworth Hall, Govans Y. M. C. A., St. John's Church, Hampden Neighborhood House, Lawrence House, Light Street Mission, Maccabean House, Church of the Messiah, Morrell Neighborhood House, North Western Club, Patterson Memorial Church, Public School No. 49, Rogers' Memorial Church, St. Andrew's Church, St. Paul's Guild House, Seton M. E. Church, Warner House.

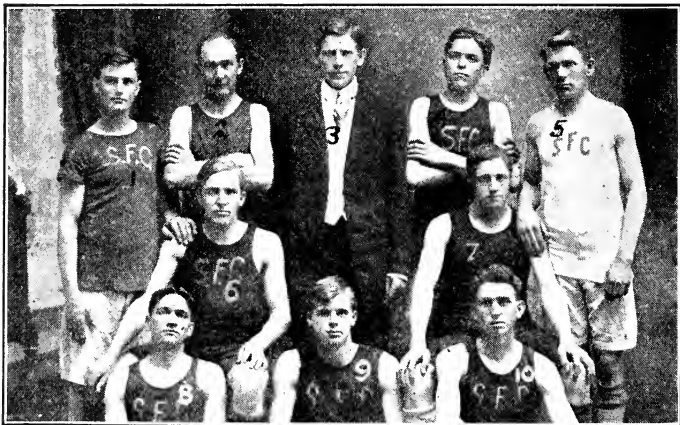

The championship was won by St. Paul's Guild House team, also winners in 1909. The runner-up in this league was Warner House.

Of the eight (8) junior heavyweight teams Light Street Mission proved the strongest, and defeated the Maccabean House, title holders of 1909, in the final game for the championship title. The teams were: Epworth Hall, Hampden Neighborhood House, St. Paul's Guild

House, Morrell Park Volunteers, North Western Club, Lawrence House, Maccabean House, Light Street Mission.

St. Paul's Guild House senior lightweight team had but little difficulty in securing the top honors in their division, Maccabean House being their strongest opponent. The senior lightweight class had twelve teams, as follows: Epworth Hall, St. John's Church, Hampden Neighborhood House, Lawrence House, Maccabean House, Sexton M. E. Church, Light Street Mission, North Western Club, Patterson Memorial Church, Public School No. 49, St. Andrew's Church, St. Paul's Guild House.

The senior heavyweight class had fifteen teams entered, as follows: Epworth Hall, Govans Y. M. C. A., St. John's, Hampden Neighborhood House, Light Street Mission, Public School No. 49, St. Andrew's Church, Maccabean House, Messiah Church, Morrell Park Volunteers, North Western Club, Patterson Memorial Church, Rogers Memorial Church, St. Paul's Guild House, Warner House.

In the cleanest, best played and most exciting game of the tournament, Govans Y. M. C. A. won the championship from Light Street Mission team, champions of 1909, in the last few minutes of play.

The tournament was satisfactory in every sense and the conduct of the boys excellent. The style of play improved throughout the season and the prospect for another season is bright.

Basket Ball in Cincinnati

By WM. A. REEVE.

After being in a more or less comatose condition for several years basket ball took a sudden revival during the season of 1909-10 in and around Cincinnati, or southern Ohio.

The Cincinnati Gymnasium and Athletic Club had their Junior league early in the season and the Senior league at the close of the season. Good games were the rule. The C. G. A. C., unlike former years, was not represented in outside games, they confining their work to their two leagues.

The Young Men's Christian Association has eight leagues playing on their floor, the strongest of which were the Baraca, outside institution using the Y. M. C. A. floor by the courtesy of the Christian directors and the Y. M. C. A. League. The Crescents won the pennant of the latter affair in rather runaway fashion. This team was composed of the best stars of the city in the younger set, two Lipman brothers, Koebel and Nickum being the fastest.

The Cincinnati Veterinary College had an exceptionally fast team in the field, and succeeded in winning a majority of their games.

The closest and most exciting game was between Covenanters, Baraca champions, and an all-star team. The score was 27 to 27 at the end of the game. In six minutes of overtime play Charley Cohan of the Covenanters threw a sensational goal from the middle of the floor, winning the game for his team.

Stevens of Christ Church threw 19 field goals in one game, and John Lewis of the C. G. A. C. secured 17 goals. These are about the most spectacular feats performed during the season.

The high schools formed a league, the championship of which was not decided, inasmuch as neither Covington nor Hamilton were ever defeated, and no game could be arranged between them.

Outside of the leagues many athletic clubs put teams of unusual strength in the field. In fact, the game last season was faster than for many years. The attendance at the games was also better, and there can be no doubt but had the City League got under way it would have been a winner. Christ Church, the team that won the city championship outside of leagues, drew remarkably well. The Friars A.C., however, drew the largest crowds. The Friars were contenders for the city title, but were downed by the Christ Church five. The only team that defeated the Christ Church boys was the famous Dayton Turner team. That was the first game of the season for the Christ Church five, which had something to do with the defeat. Georgetown University was swamped.

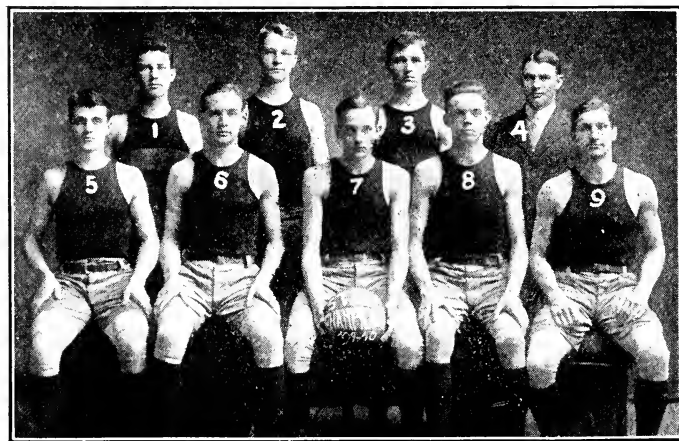

Next to the Christ Church team came the First Regiment and Friars. The regiment five, however, was composed of two of the famous Y. M. C. A. Crescents, namely, Kobel and Burgess. The soldiers defeated the Friars late in the season, a victory which put them in line for a game with the champion Christ Church team, but the latter had disbanded by that time and no game could be arranged.

In picking an all Cincinnati team there are many points to be considered besides hailing a forward as a star because he throws many goals and a guard a constellation because he "sticks" his man. A forward must excel at taking throws on the run and at difficult angles. Several are content to stay near the goal and wait for the ball to come to them and in that manner throw from fifteen to twenty goals. That wins games perhaps, but does not make an all-star aggregation. The guard, beside being a good sticker, must be exceptionally good at "feeding" the forwards. The center man, beside being able to jump higher than another man, must be heady, and when getting an advantage over his opponent in jumping be able to place the ball where it will do the most good, and not simply hit any old way. There are dozens of star forwards, dozens of fast and heady centers and a like number of classy guards.

1. Kowalski; 2. McGee; 3. Harmon; 4. Smith; 5. Hogarty; 6. Murphy; 7. McNamara.

ST. MARY'S (KY.) COLLEGE.

As a number of teams played but a very few games off their own floor and some other clubs played nearly all away from home, a true line on the players could not be secured, making it impossible to pick an all-star aggregation, but those that showed the best form during the year follow:

Right forward, George Burgess of Y. M. C. A. Crescents and First Regiment; left forward, Archie Stevens of champion Christ Church Five; center, "Tiny" Moore of Cincinnati University; right guard, Bennett of Cincinnati University; left guard, Galinari of champion Christ Church Five; left forward, Easton of Cincinnati University and Christ Church; right forward, Koebel of Y. M. C. A. Crescents and First Regiment; center, McMinn of Christ Church; left guard, Caurittell of First Regiment, and right guard, Wilberding of Friars.

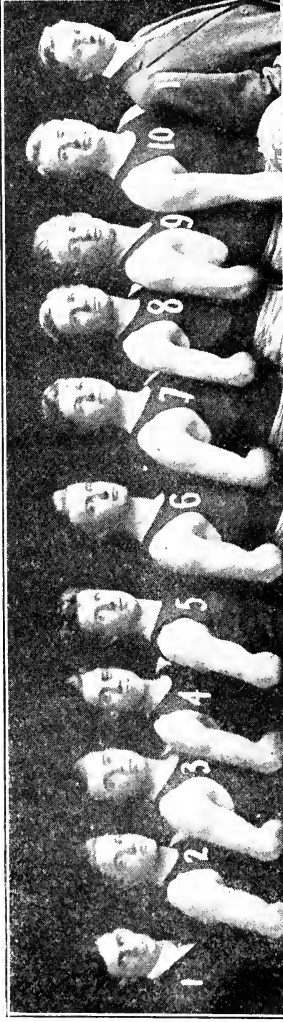

At the Cincinnati University the five representing the Red and Black passed through a successful season, winning a majority of their games. The only college to defeat them was Miami, which team twice turned the trick, at Cincinnati and Oxford.

That the basket ball season of 1909-10 in and around Cincinnati was very successful would be putting it mildly. The enthusiasm displayed far exceeded that of many years, and had the City League taken to the field it would have met with great success. It is to be hoped that the organization will be completed next winter.

Y.M.C.A., Ottumwa, Iowa.—Coach Eigie's aggregation made a wonderful record during the winter months. Besides bringing the State Y.M.C.A. championship to Ottumwa, the "Y" five gave the city much free advertising throughout the State by the wonderful records made. While the team captured the State honors in its division the Ottumwa High School five, composed largely of members of the Y.M.C.A., won the State High School Basket Ball Championship by not losing a single game. The "Y" team participated in nineteen games, and out of this number won sixteen. The team did not lose a game on the home floor, upholding the record of not a defeat in the Ottumwa gymnasium in the past four years, since the time E. J. Eigenmann took up the reins of physical director of the Ottumwa Association. In the nineteen games played the Ottumwa tossers scored 754 points to their opponents' 482, the average score per game being 40 to 25. During the basket ball season, the team made the longest tour of any five in the State. It played eleven games on the road, meeting the fast Des Moines, Sioux City Association team, besides national guard and college fives. The team only lost three games on the trip. Taking into consideration the fact that the members participated in every game for a ten days' stretch, playing in gymnasiums which did not conform to the basket ball regulations, this showing was indeed a wonderful one. The members of the team were Victor Tharp, Royce Dingeman, Eugene Van Gent, Michael Mier, Millard Cremere, and Joseph Stentz and Walter Johnson substitute players. Every member of the team was a star. When the men got in action it was not a team with a lone star, one individual doing all the playing, but every one of the members were in the game and the entire five played as one. The credit of developing a championship team justly belongs to Physical Director E. J. Eigenmann. During his connection with the Ottumwa Association, he has always had a winning team and has won several State championships. Basket ball is his favorite sport, and his success in turning out winning teams showed that he has a rare knowledge of the popular indoor sport. Besides developing a champion Y.M.C.A. team, Eigenmann also coached the high school team which won the State honors in its division.

Basket Ball in Toledo, Ohio

By E. FRANCIS MOHLER,
Manager St. Patrick's Basket Ball Team.

The season of 1909-10 witnessed a great increase in the interest and in the number of teams organized to give their attention to basket ball. Great interest was evinced in the contests that took place, so much so that finally basket ball came to be a sort of mid-winter social function. It was not until this last season that the great indoor game came into its own and kept pace with the advance of other sports. The game has been heretofore furthered by the Y. M. C. A. together with St. John's College and the local high school. But now the athletic clubs have taken up the sport and given it so much attention that where formerly it was looked upon as a juvenile game, it is now indulged with the greatest interest and enthusiasm. Here are the records of the more prominent teams:

	W.	L.	PC.		W.	L.	PC.
St. John's College...	11	0	1.000	High School	9	2	.818
Melvins	7	1	.875	Excelsiors	8	4	.666
St. Patrick's	12	2	.857

Besides these there were other teams too numerous to mention, but their work was more or less of an experiment for the purpose of testing the drawing powers of the game itself; it was their first season, in fact, and their success was a more or less doubtful quantity.

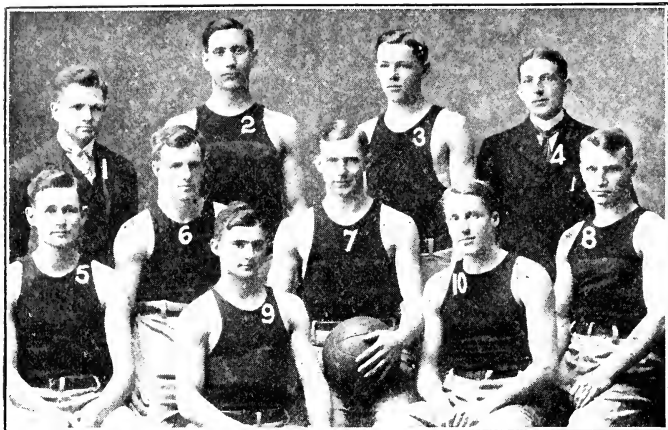

The great interest that has been aroused in the game here in Toledo is more or less due to the good offices of the Y. M. C. A. Most of the players on the other teams were members of the Y. M. C. A.; they saw the game played in the gymnasium and their interest was aroused. So they organized independent teams and played the games themselves.

An endeavor was made to play off for the city championship. St. John's College team withdrew early from the game, as the college faculty only allowed the players a certain schedule beyond which they could not go. So St. Patrick's and the High School arranged a series of three games for the purpose of clearing up doubts. The first was a victory for the High School, the score being 26 to 20; the second was won by St. Patrick's, 23 to 13. But the third and deciding game was never played on account of the oppressive weather that came on. So these two teams have with equal justice a claim to the city championship.

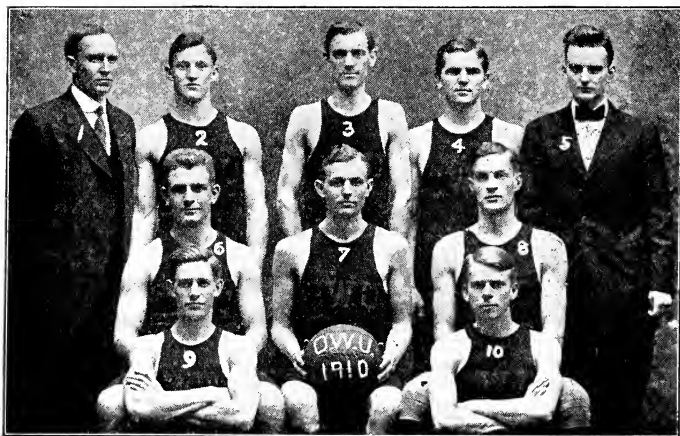

The junior championship of the city was an undecided issue between the Melvin Juniors and the Excelsiors, each team having lost and won a game.

Besides these individual independent teams there were also several leagues. The most important one was the Church or the Sunday School League, which played its games on the Y. M. C. A. floor. This was a great social and financial success. The championship was won by the team from Westminster Church.

Then, too, there was the Ward School League, which brought together the smaller boys of the Ward Schools. Through a process of elimination the most likely teams were brought together to play off the championship. Newbury School won. Considering the size and the experience of the basket ballers, some very good games were played.

Basket Ball in Detroit

BY BOB GROGAN.

The basket ball season of 1909-10 in Detroit was by far the most successful and interesting one of this great indoor winter game. More young basket ball players and teams have developed than in any previous year. The season was a little late in starting, but when under way much keen competition and rivalry was shown.

The Spalding basket ball team was the first to get going and won from the Hope College team, last year Michigan State champions, 44 to 25. The Spalding basket ball team was composed of a very fine class of players, who lost the State championship this year by not keeping in condition. This team was given a severe beating towards the last of the season by the Young Men's Institute basket ball team.

The Young Men's Institute basket ball team was the next to get in line, and showed up very classy. This team was composed of a fine lot of basket ball players, who gave promise of being the State champions this year, but, through their being over-trained, they fell before the Y. M. C. A. team. This team next year will no doubt be in the running for the State championship, as they did not show themselves in their true form this season.

There is no doubt that if the season had started at the time that the basket ball season closed, the Young Men's Institute would surely have been State champions.

The Detroit Y.M.C.A. showed up a little better than any of the Detroit teams, beating the Spaldings in two very close games and also the Y. M. I. The work of Monahan of the Y. M. I. in the Y. M. C. A. game with the Y. M. I. was the best seen here in some time, as he was in a class by himself. The success of the Y. M. C. A. team was due to the all-around work of Boosey and Stockham, their two forwards. Wilson did not show himself as strong this year, which was probably due to his being captain of the team. The Detroit Y.M.C.A. were the State champions for 1910.

The Burroughs basket ball team showed up well during the season and played good, consistent ball all the way through. Their most notable feat was beating the Y. M. C. A., but the latter were not given the credit due them, as they were short two of their men. The Burroughs split even with the Spaldings and Y. M. I. Walker was the star of the Burroughs team.

The Riverside basket ball team was a little late in getting started, but came along towards the close of the season, breaking even with both the Y. M. I. and Spaldings in close games.

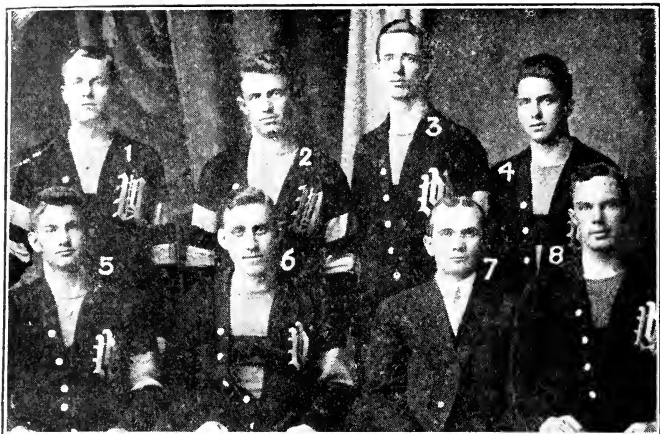

In summing up these teams, the writer thinks the verdict should be handed to the Y. M. C. A., their work being a little better all the way through, they defeating the best teams in the city, while the other teams broke even with each other, the Spalding team being considered as a close runner-up.

Many leagues were formed during the season; a Baraca League, composed of Sunday School teams, had a very successful season.

The Try Square Basket Ball League was composed of the young men from the Try Square Club and played some very good ball, considering their age.

The Y. M. H. A. had a four-team league, which went through the season with good success.

The Y. M. C. Club of St. Vincent's parish had a fine league and many young basket ball players made good names for themselves.

The Commercial League of the Y. M. C. A. had a very successful season with a six-team league and their games were well attended, as there was some very classy basket ball played at these games.

The most notable independent teams in Detroit were the Y. M. I. Reserves, Rayls, Franklin, Solvay Process, Burroughs, Reserves, Wolverine, Wellington Y.M.C., Boulevard, K. K.'s, Riverside Junior, Try Square, St. Louis and Wanderers.

The Rayls were by far the best independent team and went through the season with a clear record.

The writer has been asked to pick a number of the best men for teams, and thinks the following would make a very fine aggregation.

Centers—Hanaran of the Y. M. I., Roxborough of the Spalding, Branston of the Y. M. C. A. Forwards—Monahan of the Y. M. I., Gordon of the Spalding, Walker of the Burroughs, Stockham of the Y. M. C. A., and Boosey of the Y. M. C. A. Guards—Wilson of the Y. M. C. A., Bullion of the Spalding, Ulbrich of the Spalding, and Smith of the Burroughs.

The standing of the various leagues at close of season was as follows:

PREPARATORY SCHOOL BASKET BALL IN DETROIT

By E. WUESTHOFF, JR.

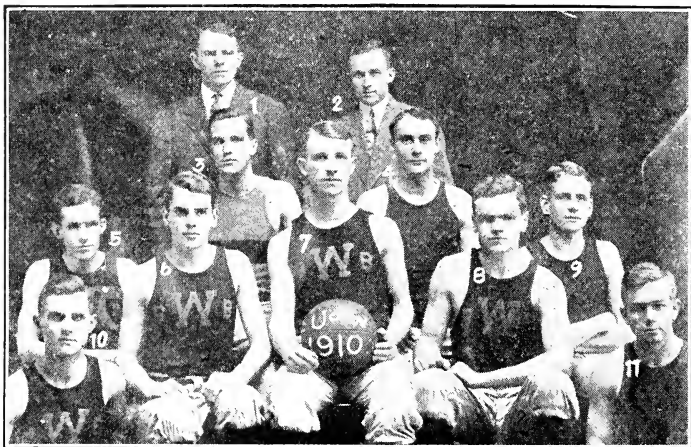

Never before in Detroit basket ball history have so many high school boys actively participated in the game as in 1910. Therefore, in point of interest, number of participants and enthusiasm of players and spectators, last year marked the close of the most successful of seasons.

Delray being a small school and experiencing a dearth of material, found itself unable to place a representative team in the field. The girls, however, organized a team, which was probably the best preparatory schools girls' team ever seen in Michigan. Their victories were all clean and decisive, leaving no room for doubt as to their superiority. Not being satisfied with mere preparatory school victories, they met and defeated several college girl teams.

Detroit University School was represented by a team which was not up to the high standard set by former teams from that institution. It was an entirely inexperienced team and could not be expected to show exceptional class. As none of the members will be lost through graduation, a great team should represent the University School next season.

UNIVERSITY OF WOOSTER.

Western started out like a whirlwind, holding Eastern to a 19—17 victory and defeating Central in the first of their two contests. They did not improve, however, on their early season form, and suffered several defeats from other State teams during the rest of the season.

Central had a very erratic year, starting out like cellar championship contenders and finishing with a very creditable showing. After losing a game with Western, one with Pontiac and canceling two with Saginaw, they wound up the season with a whirlwind finish.

Of all the high schools, Eastern has had the most successful season. After the Western game, which was won by the low score of 19 to 17, Eastern defeated all the State teams on their schedule by overwhelming scores. So easily were their opponents defeated that it was claimed Eastern was meeting a lot of dub teams. This claim was negated by the fact that in the second game between Eastern and Western, Eastern was the victor by a score of 40 to 17. For Western this was the worst defeat of the season. The score compared very favorably for Eastern with the 27 to 21 score obtained by Central over Western.

The two old rivals, Eastern and Central, did not meet, owing to a difference regarding schedules.

However, the majority of basket ball enthusiasts have picked Eastern as the only real claimant to State honors. This is due to an unbroken succession of victories; a record unequalled by any other team in the State. Eastern was selected as a 3 to 1 choice in the event of a game with Central. The Detroit News picked Eastern as possessing "the only clear title to State championship honors."

Finally, in a selection unbiased by any touch of local color, Eastern was selected as State champions to represent Michigan at the Middle West Interscholastic Basket Ball Championships, held at Madison, Wis. Haskell Noyes, the former Yale star and coach of the Wisconsin University basket ball team, made the selection. The choice was made by Mr. Noyes while on a tour of investigation of championship claimants in the various States.

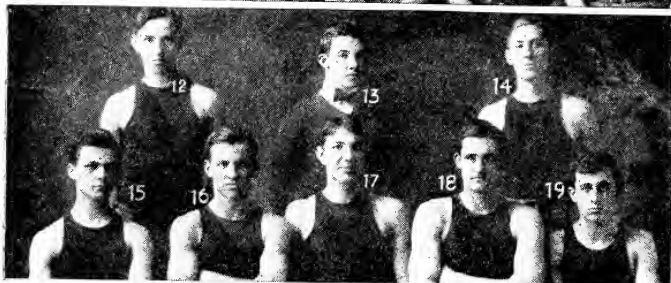

At Madison Eastern defeated Faribault, Minn., 33 to 26. Eastern's next opponents were Ottumwa, Ia., who won 29 to 23. The Ottumwa team, however, was defeated by Appleton, the winners of the meet, 21 to 17. Inasmuch as Ottumwa made by far the best showing against Appleton and Eastern held Ottumwa to its lowest score, critics picked Eastern for third place in the race for Middle Western championship honors.

A great individual honor was won by Thomas Roxborough, captain of Eastern's team. He was selected as an All-Western guard.

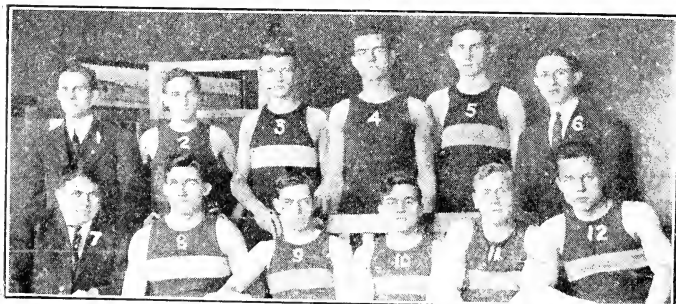

Besides the 'varsity contests, which naturally excite the most interest, Cass, Western, Central, and Eastern held contests among teams selected from the student body as a whole.

At Cass and Central the interclass contests excited a great deal of interest. At Western and Eastern the plan of organization was such as to include a Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior League, each league to have any number of teams, according to the number of boys desiring to play.

At Eastern 150 boys were actively engaged in basket ball in this manner. Upon closing the schedules of the various leagues the champions of each league played an elimination contest to decide the winner of the magnificent cup, presented by A. G. Spalding & Bros., as a perpetual school trophy. The Orchids of the Sophomore League were this year's captors of the trophy.

Basket Ball in St. Louis and Vicinity

BY H. HARDIN, OF THE PREMIERE TEAM.

The 1909-10 basket ball season in St. Louis was not a successful one from any standpoint. The game sadly lacked organization, and, unless something is speedily done no improvement can be looked for.

The failure of several of our larger athletic institutions to support "first" teams, as in the past, resulted in the breaking up of the city's strongest league and the general demoralization of the sport. That the game was as popular as ever with the players, however, was evidenced by the great number of independent teams. Then there was trouble. Basket ball had always been a hard game to control here, even when under the guiding hands of men of mature years, but without such supervision, the players simply ran wild. Mix-ups over gate receipts, officials, etc., were frequent.

Then, too, there were very few good games. More than one of what were considered our stronger teams gained that reputation by continually playing teams of inferior class and steadfastly refusing to meet fives capable of offering more interesting competition. A good following had been educated up to the sport when the season opened, but the great number of one-sided games slowly but surely caused them to lose interest, and from the middle of the season on the attendance was very poor.

The City Championship was won by the Premiere Lodge (formerly Central Y.M.C.A.) five, which defeated all of the better teams of the city. The Premiere team also took part in the National A.A.U. Championships at Chicago in March, and won second place. The St. Louis team won its first three games, but succumbed to Company F, of Portage, Wis., in the final. It was the first game the St. Louis team had lost since its organization, three seasons ago, and it has taken part in something like a hundred contests in that time.

First Regiment, N. G. M., fostered a league of twelve teams, one from each company in the regiment. Company A won the championship in rather easy fashion. Company C finished in second place and Company E won third honors. The sport was very popular in the regiment and all the teams had enthusiastic followings.

Central High School won the championship of the Interscholastic League by defeating McKinley High School by one point in the last game of the season. Neither team had lost a game prior to their meeting, and the deciding contest was a great one. Central's early lead was all that saved it, as the McKinley team rallied gamely toward the end. Western Military Academy finished third.

The Turners' League had a very good season. Its games were well attended and the competition very even. Social Turners won the championship, with the St. Louis Turners finishing in second place.

Cross Church won the Lafayette League pennant. The Russell A.C. team put up a good fight for first honors, but had to be satisfied with second place.

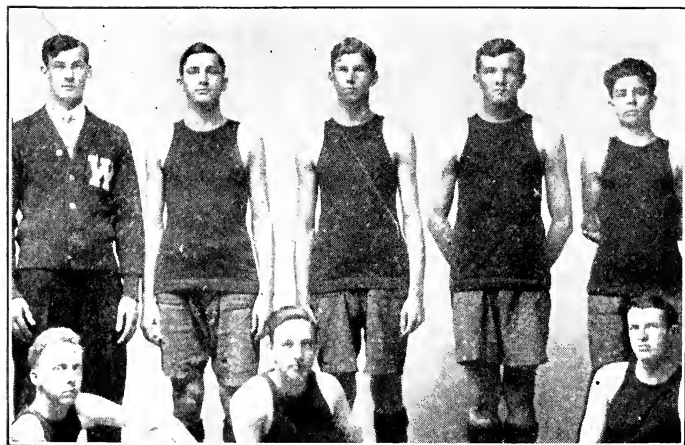

Century A.C. was the Louisiana League pennant-winner. St. Stephen's A.C. won second position. This league was made up of the youngest players of the city.

The game had a very good season in the smaller towns near St. Louis. McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill.; Central Wesleyan College of Warrenton, Mo.; Belleville Turners of Belleville, Ill.; Agogas of Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Y. M. C. A., Alton, Ill.; Shurtleff College, Alton, Ill., and Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., were a few of the out-of-town teams which entertained teams from St. Louis during the season.

Basket Ball in Kansas

By J. L. MONTGOMERY,

Physical Director, Topeka Y. M. C. A.

The game in Kansas has taken great strides during the past season and enjoyed its first year of healthy organization. Greater interest has been manifested in the A. A. U. than in the intercollegiate championship.

For the intercollegiate honors, Kansas University holds the title undisputed. In fact they are the intercollegiate champions of the Missouri Valley. The game among the smaller colleges seems to have retraced a step. This is due partially to the fact that the scholarship required has been more rigidly enforced, thus cutting down the eligibility lists to such an extent that good teams were scarce.

The interest in the high school division centered in the State Championship meet held at Lawrence, under the auspices of the State University. Here were gathered all of the strongest high school teams of the State, and a lively competition was the result. When the smoke of the final round had cleared away, Clay County remained undefeated and were declared State High School Champions. Topeka, however, puts in a claim on the ground that they have played and defeated stronger teams than those entered in the Lawrence tournament.

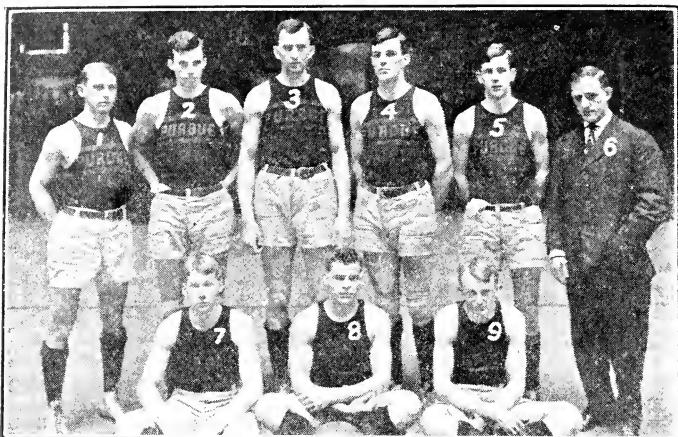

For the A. A. U. Rules Championship, Topeka Central Y. M. C. A., by reason of its undefeated record, holds that undisputed. In fact, they claim to be the strongest team of the Missouri Valley and A. A. U. champions. One characteristic of the Topeka team was their ability to make a lightning finish. It is true in nearly every game their opponents were in the lead at the end of the first half, and by fast team play and ability to score at the critical time, they were enabled to take the longer end of the score when the final whistle sounded. In Topeka a city league, composed of five teams, was formed and played an interesting series of games. Central Y. M. C. A. maintained a percentage of 1,000 and won the silver loving cup.

It seems to be the general consensus of opinion that the past season's history of the game over the State has done more for its advancement than all other seasons. The game has been popular because of the clean, manly games, which has held the interest of the better class of spectators, and has made the game a financial success, which has been heretofore impossible. A higher development of team-play, as well as individual work, was more than ever manifested. The games were free from wrangling. Credit for the latter was due, largely, to competent officials. Long passes were almost entirely eliminated and the short pass substituted.

Selections for an All-Kansas and All-State High School High School teams are appended:

All-Kansas Team—Forwards, Sears, Topeka Y.M.C.A., and Goldner, Wichita Y.M.C.A.; center, White, Wichita Y.M.C.A.; guards, Jordan, Topeka Y.M.C.A., and Tice, Topeka Y.M.C.A.

Basket Ball in Kansas City

BY JOHN C. GROVER AND C. E. MCBRIDE.

Some doubt has been expressed as to the stability and lasting quality of basket ball. But if Kansas City is to be a criterion, basket ball is destined to join the ranks of the leading games of the country. Last year Kansas City had City, High School, Sunday School, Ward School, and many other leagues too numerous to even name in our limited space.

The Kansas City Athletic Club's team were the City League champions. A veteran team, playing either A. A. U. or intercollegiate rules, they were head and shoulders above their nearest competitors, and were second to few, if any, teams in the valley.

In choosing an All-Kansas City team we could do little better than choose the Kansas City A.C. team in its entirety with: Goldman and Terte, forwards; Dennis, center; Minton and Shaffer or Crabbs, guards.

Only one or two men in Kansas City would challenge this array. Hueston at forward and Jewell at guard for the Y. M. C. A. played great games, but were handicapped by playing on a young team without the great knowledge of the game that the league winners possessed. The league standing for the year was:

	W.	L.	PC.		W.	L.	PC.
K. C. A. C.....	8	0	1.000	K. C. V. C.....	4	5	.444
I. C. A. C.....	6	1	.857	Third Regiment	2	5	.286
Y. M. C. A. Giants,	5	2	.714	C. B. C.....	1	5	.167
Y. M. C. A. Olymp's	5	3	.625	G. K.	1	6	.143
Company F, Md....	3	3	.500	I. A. A. C.....	0	5	.000

The Athletic Club team also made a barn-storming trip through Missouri and Kansas, returning with almost a perfect record, winning 21 out of 24 games played on foreign courts.

The Greater Kansas City High School League drew thousands of spectators and occasioned greater interest in the game than has ever been felt in Kansas City. The rivalry was intense and the playing of an exceptionally high order, some of the players being well in the college class and the entire league playing very consistent ball.

The official standing was as follows:

	W.	L.	PC.		W.	L.	PC.
Westport	8	1	.888	Manual	6	3	.666
Central	6	3	.666	Kansas City, Kan..	0	9	.000

This gives Westport the undisputed championship of the league. All-Interscholastic teams chosen for the Kansas City Star were as follows:

Moffitt (captain), Manual, and Downes. Westport, forwards; Shepard, Westport, center; Sweeney, Westport, and Stengle, Central, guards. Second Team—Brown (captain), Central, and Smith, Manual, forwards; Koenigsdorf, Manual, center; Powell, Manual, and Regan, Westport, guards.

The G. K. C. S. S. A. L. had many teams and ran a very complete schedule, dividing the city into four geographical divisions and the division winners playing for the City Championship, and an All-S. S. A. L. would be:

1 Rees; 2. Ray Baker; 3. E. Sharer; 4, Cully; 5, Roy Baker, Capt.; 6, H. Hulbert, Coach; 7. W. Sharer.

Basket Ball in North Dakota

BY CHARLES B. HARRISON, FARGO, N. D.

The past season for basket ball in North Dakota has shown distinct improvement in the following points:

A close study has been made of the game by the players and there has been an honest effort on their part to live up to the rules. The officiating has been strict, some officials adopting the Chicago suggestion and calling a foul where three men were in opposition, though not necessarily touching the ball. The rules of the Amateur Athletic Union have been used by all the teams. For the first time the registration in the union has extended to this section.

A fast and quick pass has predominated among the players, and the guards have played a decidedly closer game, with the result that the scores this year have been smaller than the scores of last year. Invariably teams using a sloppy, rough style of play lost to teams using a clean, clear-cut style.

There has been more difficulty among players not understanding the rule on dribbling than any other in the book. However, as this is plainly stated, it is expected it will be likely understood within a few seasons.

The game was played among high schools and colleges, independent organizations, Young Men's Christian Associations, military companies and business schools.

In the High School Championship series, Minot carried off the title, not having lost a game, and were easy winners over their nearest competitors. They never lost any time wrangling with officials.

In the business school class, the Dakota Business College team (professional) won the championship. A decline of interest in professional basket ball was evident. In the Young Men's Christian Association contest, Grand Forks Association developed an all-star team, this team representing the Northwest in the champion tournament in Chicago, and according to standing, winning second place. The State Championship of greatest interest, however, was among the colleges, and was won by the North Dakota Agricultural College of Fargo, winning a total of eleven out of thirteen games.

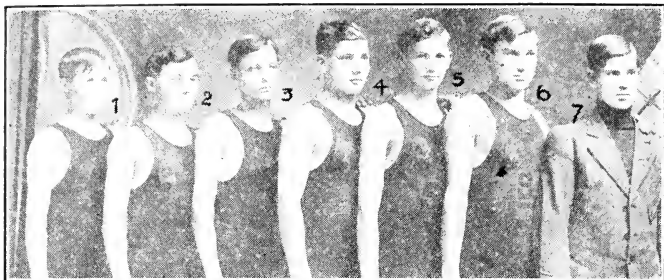

An All-State team would include players from the colleges and Young Men's Christian Associations.

The following team has been selected, and is a composite of the judgment of the coaches of the State: Farnham and Bridge, forwards; Lofthouse, center; Fortin and Heskins, guards.

Dayton (Ohio) Turners.—The Turners won the Dayton Championship by defeating the "Yellow Kids" two out of three games. Their record for the season was 13 won, lost 2. They scored 626 points to their opponents' 355.

Clifton (Arizona) Team.—Manager George Ghizoni writes: "We have not played many games the past season, but chiefly on account of trouble securing a suitable hall. The new armory of Company F, A. N. G., is now complete and next year should be a much better one for basket ball. On account of great distance to be traveled in meeting other teams than Morenci we were obliged to be content with defeating Morenci five out of six games.

Lafayette (Col.) High School.—Lafayette played and won twenty-one consecutive games against some of the best teams in the State of Colorado, scoring 966 points to their opponents' 339. Never, in the history of basket ball in Colorado have such an aggregation of boys played together. They played as one and showed by this that they realized that one man could not make a team. It is such playing as this that has won them the name of being the fastest team in the State.

Basket Ball in Minneapolis and Vicinity

BY JOHN A. SEIBEL, JR.

There is probably no section of the country where amateur basket ball is gaining a stronger hold and commanding a more generous support than in Minneapolis. Basket ball, in the season just closed, has reached a greater stage of efficiency than ever before, and was by far the top-notch winter sport, holding the boards practically from Thanksgiving Day to the middle of March.

The average team play, even among first-year teams, was more in evidence than in previous years. The participants have become more familiar with the rules governing the game; the officials have been fair and efficient, the play generally less rough and more scientific; on the whole, the spirit in which the players have entered into the contests was admirable.

Basket ball has made good in Minnesota. It has not only come to stay, but bids fair to increase in popularity every year. So fascinated was the public with the spirited contests in every part of the State, that it was no uncommon thing to see from 800 to 1,500 enthusiastic fans gathered to cheer on their favorites.

Among the foremost of the college teams in the State was St. John's, which ably defended its title, "Intercollegiate Champions," by defeating every team on its long schedule but one, losing twice to the St. Joseph team of Minneapolis. Hamline, taking up the sport for the first year, made rapid strides and should be formidable next season. St. Thomas has shown none of its cleverness of past seasons. St. Olaf, Carleton, Northfield and others had fairly good teams, and Shattuck Military Academy and Pillsbury College also had teams playing during the season. An intercollegiate league would be a great boost for basket ball.

In the high school class, probably the cleverest teams were those of New Ulm, Buffalo and Humboldt and Central of St. Paul. A clear title to championship was not established, owing to the inability of many teams to travel.

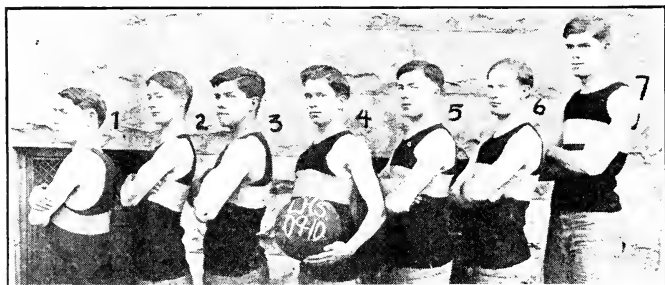

In independent circles, St. Paul had a good team in the Y. M. C. A. Although not in the class with some of the Mill City quints, they made an elegant showing against teams of their city. The National Guard, at St. Paul, had a host of teams playing independent ball, but all of less ability than the Y. M. C. A. The lack of interest in basket ball in St. Paul is due in a great measure to the scarcity of suitable gymnasiums available for their sport. Stillwater, Duluth, Bemidji, St. Cloud, Perham and Northfield had good teams, but failed to make any big noise in Minneapolis. The famous Company G team of Red Wing has been eliminated from the State championship this season, for the first time in many seasons. In Minneapolis, Company G went down to defeat before the Ascension and St. Joseph teams, the latter also taking their measure on the Red Wing court, this team being the only Minnesota team to accomplish the feat this year.

Minneapolis is the recognized center of basket ball of the North Central States. Exactly ninety-eight teams played in the several leagues during the past season; how many more independent teams took up the game will be impossible ever to estimate. The many league and independent quints of this city have met every team of organized championship caliber of neighboring States, cities and towns, and not one of them has met with defeat in this city. One of the fastest independent teams and practically the only one of any class that was not affiliated with any league, was the crack

CITY LEAGUE—SENIOR.

The season 1909-1910 in the Senior League has been an active one in the Minnesota metropolis; in fact, the most successful in the history of this organization, which now has completed its fourth year. One setback following another characterized its reorganization in the beginning, several teams having withdrawn, either to play independently or to disband, thereby strengthening other teams. Nevertheless the officials accomplished an organization which was not to be outdone by former years. The league was in every way conducted on strict business principles. A regular staff of officials, appointed by the league directors, acted in that capacity in all games. All league rules were rigidly enforced; the league was on a strictly amateur basis and the best harmony and sportsmanship prevailed throughout the entire season.

A great surprise was exhibited by several new clubs of the league, practically first year teams, especially the Unity and Pillsbury quints. The Holcombs had a splendid team, lightning fast, and fought bravely throughout the season, losing but two games to the champs. The final struggle for championship honors took place between the Holcombs and St. Josephs on March 17, and the 1,700 fans were treated to some basket ball. Every man on both teams was at his best, St. Joseph's winning 39—19.

The new champions, with this victory, scored its tenth successive game in the league, and ended a most wonderful season with a record of 25 victories and no defeats. This crack team played the same game all season, abounding in marvelous team play and sensational basket shooting.

CITY LEAGUE—JUNIOR.

The initial season of the Junior League was the success of the year. The purpose of this organization was to take care of all intermediate teams, ranking in ability between the Senior and Church Leagues. The games in this league were of a high standard and more than ever its utility as a developer of big league material came into evidence.

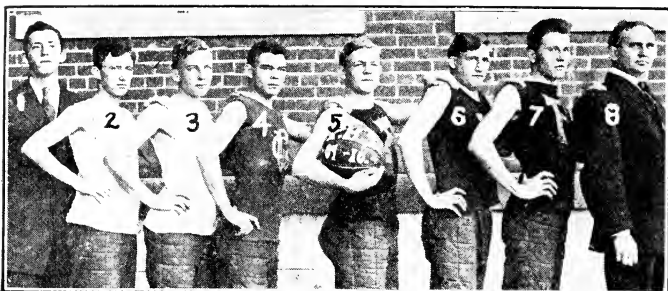

Headed by competent officials, the league went through its schedule as though it had several years' experience. Edwin T. Hodge of Unity Gymnasium and C. J. Brosius, as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, conducted the league.

The final standing of the junior teams was:

CHURCH LEAGUE.

This organization has a great future. One setback was noticeable—the lack of suitable halls for its games, while each team of the Senior and Junior Leagues had a hall of its own. However, the success of the league was greatly due to the untiring efforts of its officials: E. H. Brown, president; Roy Williams, vice-president; A. T. Nelson, secretary-treasurer.

Y. M. C. A. COMMERCIAL LEAGUE.

Interest in basket ball at the Y. M. C. A. was at a fever heat all season. Although the Y. M. C. A. was not represented in any of the city organizations, Physical Director C. T. Booth conducted three leagues within the association. Fifty teams, playing in three leagues, go to show what popularity the game has attained.

The Men's Class League consisted of fourteen teams, and rivalry was keen from first to last. The Boys' Class League boasted of thirty regular teams, playing at regular intervals.

But the league that attracted the greatest number of enthusiasts to the gym, and exhibited finished knowledge of the game, was the Y. M. C. A. Commercial League. Six teams went through a regular schedule of games, the championship going to the Apex quint, with ten victories and no defeat. The tie for second place was not played off, three teams sharing equal honors.

INTER-FRATERNITY LEAGUE—UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA.

Interest in the national American indoor game was not centered entirely in the University quint, which made such a splendid showing in the Western Conference. The institution supported besides a second and freshmen teams, a perfectly organized league consisting of eighteen fraternity teams, playing in three divisions. The winners of each section, each with a clean record of five games, the Phi Kappa Psi, Delta U and Psi U clashing in the finals for supremacy, wherein the Phi Kappa Psi quint won both games from the Delta U and Psi U, winning first honors. Dr. L. J. Cooke, physical director of the U. of M. and coach of the great university basket ball team, conducted the league.

MILITARY LEAGUE, M. N. G.

The Military League was as great a success as in former years, this season comprising more teams and playing a longer schedule. Company I was declared champions, with 12 victories and 1 defeat, this being administered by the Company F team, which won second honors with 10 wins and 2 losses. Companies M, A and B followed in order. Few games were played with outside teams during the season, owing to the many forms of athletics, especially indoor base ball, every company being represented in that league by a team, and company drills occupying the floor of the armory at all spare times.

ST. JOSEPH'S ATHLETIC CLUB LEAGUE.

This athletic club was represented in both the Senior and Junior Leagues, winning first honors in the former and second in the latter, and besides supported a regular league within its club.

The Laurels won the championship with six straight victories, followed closely by the Bachelors, with but one defeat. The Reds, Fat Men and Terrible Joes occupied positions lower in the column.

Basket Ball in New Orleans

BY L. DI BENDETTO,

Secretary-Treasurer Southern Association Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

Never since the inauguration of basket ball in New Orleans was the game so popular as it stands to-day. As far as I can remember, basket ball was revived here some three or four years ago, when the Y. M. C. A. was about the only club in the city which played the game at that time. To-day it stands foremost among the popular amateur sports.

I happened to be secretary of the league, at that time known as the New Orleans Basket Ball League, which contested for the championship of the city, and which was conducted strictly among registered athletes of the A. A. U. Many stars were developed, among them being Raymond Durel, star forward of the Usher team, which won the city championship after one of the hardest struggles ever witnessed in this city. Durel made 36 field goals, the highest number ran up by any individual player. Thorpe of the Y. M. G. C. was second, scoring 29 from the field.

The attendance at the games was very gratifying. At the closing game for the championship of the city at least 500 people paid to see the contest, many being turned away on account of not having the seating nor standing room capacity to accommodate them.

This was perhaps the best game of basket ball that I have ever witnessed, although extremely rough. In brief, the teams of the Ushers and Y. M. G. C. were tied for first honors. The Ushers had met the Y. M. G. C. once and lost to the Gymnastics. The Phoenix team had met and defeated the Gymnastics in the opening game of the series. The Usher team twice met and defeated the Phoenix team. The second time that the Gymnastics and Phoenix teams met the game ended in a row. Therefore, since the Ushers had defeated the Phoenix in two games, and the Phoenix had defeated the Gymnastics in one game, and the Ushers and Gymnastics breaking even, the championship was undisputed, taking into consideration the above facts. In the closing game the Usher team showed its superiority by defeating the Gymnastics without giving them a single goal from the field. This was the roughest game I have ever seen or perhaps ever will see. The game had to be called no less than six times to stop personal encounters among the players.

The season came to a close with the Ushers winning seven out of eight games and the Gymnastics winning six out of eight. The other members of the league were: Young Men's Hebrew Association, Sacred Heart Ushers and Phoenix A.C. From an unbiased point of view my pick for the All-City Team is as follows: Dresner of the Hebrew, center; Coker of the Gymnastics, sub-center; Durel of the Ushers, Thorpe of the Gymnastics, Camarata of the Ushers, regular forwards; R. Mooney of the Sacred Heart, and Ed. Holmes, sub-ends; J. White of the Ushers, Welsh of the Gymnastics, regular guards; Thriffelly of the Ushers, Corry of the Ushers, Watts and Brewer of the Phoenix, sub-guards.

Basket Ball in Alabama

BY G. N. MESSER,

Supervisor of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Birmingham, Ala.

Basket ball in Alabama came into its own last year both with regard to the number of teams playing the game and to the quality of play exhibited by the various quintets. Many of the rowdy and rough-house tactics which characterized the contests of previous years were entirely missing from the past season's games, with the result that the scientific side of the sport received its due attention. The coaches and men in charge of teams were quick to take advantage of this change in style of play, with the result that the sport gained a hold on the general public which bids to become permanent.

In the Southern Y. M. C. A. League, which was composed of teams representing Mobile, Birmingham, Montgomery and New Orleans, Mobile easily proved its superiority by not losing a game during the league's season. Not only did the Gulf City team walk away with the championship of this league, but it also made such a fine record outside as would place it on a par with the Columbus (Ga.) Y.M.C.A. and Vanderbilt University teams when it came to claiming the championship of the entire South. At one time it was thought that these teams would meet in a series to decide such a title in Birmingham, but the necessary plans failed to materialize. So evenly matched were the fives that it would be absolutely impossible to pick the best team without such a series as referred to above being played.

In Alabama, however, the Mobile aggregation was easily the best team, and in picking an All-State team no better five men could possibly be chosen than those which represented that city. The names of these players are as follows: Maiden and Soost, forwards; Martin, center, and Haas and Courtney, guards.

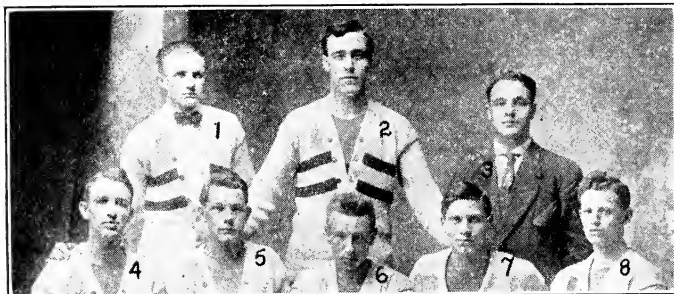

As the Southern League was composed of entirely Y. M. C. A. teams, the Birmingham Athletic Club, which has always been represented by strong fives, was forced to play outside of this organization. However, the club team did not lack for a good schedule, and the only opportunity which many of the people of Birmingham had in seeing the college and athletic club teams of the South perform, was when they played under the auspices of the Athletic Club. Out of a total of 18 games played, the club team tucked away 12 victories, three of which were from its greatest rival, the Birmingham Y.M.C.A., which also carried with them the City Championship of Birmingham.

The Birmingham Y.M.C.A. team played spasmodically throughout the past season. At times the caliber of ball given to the public was of the very best, and if continued long enough would have placed the association team in a class with the leaders. This was especially true toward the middle of the season, when such teams as Auburn and the University of Nashville were defeated with ease. Toward the close, however, the quintet showed the strain, and although it managed to defeat the club in the first of the series of three for the championship of Birmingham, still it was no match for the latter when the remaining two games were pulled off. The season at the Y. M. C. A. may be considered a constructive one and much valuable material remains out of which a future championship team may be built.

Basket ball in the colleges of Alabama is as yet far from what it should be. However, a movement has been started to include the game in the curriculum of sports played at these institutions and it now remains only a matter of time until all will be playing the sport. At present Auburn is the only large college represented by a team. Several of the smaller ones, such as Birmingham College, Southern University and the Agricultural Schools, which are known as colleges in Alabama, all had representative quintets last winter, but none of these were in the class with Auburn.

In the preparatory and high school ranks the Birmingham High School team easily carried off first honors. The Wetumpka Agricultural College also had a good representative five. As the number of preparatory and high schools in Alabama is very limited, both of these teams were forced to go out of their class in order to secure games, and although in most cases this proved disastrous to the preparatory school teams, still they nevertheless made a very fine showing. The outlook for some fine games in this division next season is very bright, as a larger number of schools are taking up the sport each year, thus making it much easier for the various teams to arrange a well rounded-out schedule.

The contests in the Birmingham Grammar School League were well fought and interesting throughout. Both the Y. M. C. A. and Birmingham Athletic Club were invited to place teams in this organization in order to secure the required number of fives to make out a schedule. In the class known as Junior B, composed of boys 100 pounds and under, the Y. M. C. A. quintet carried off the honors, while in the Junior A class, composed of boys over 100 pounds, the Powell Grammar School won the championship after a hard fight with the Woodlawn Grammar School. Following is the official standing of the two leagues:

	W.	L.	PC.		W.	L.	PC.
Powell	10	1	.909	Y. M. C. A.....	9	1	.900
Woodlawn	9	2	.817	Powell	8	2	.800
B. A. C.....	5	5	.500	Paul Hayne	5	5	.500
Y. M. C. A.....	3	7	.300	B. A. C.....	4	6	.400
East Lake	2	8	.200	Woodlawn	3	7	.300
Paul Hayne	2	8	.200	East Lake	1	9	.100

The prospects for the coming season are especially bright in all divisions of the sport, and if the progress made last year is only continuous, it will not be long before Alabama will be able to boast of some of the best and most scientific teams in the country.

St. John's College, Toledo, O.—St. John's College had the most successful team that ever represented the college or city. Out of thirteen games played, none were lost. This clean record, together with their fifteen straight victories of the season '08-'09, against the strongest college teams of Northwestern Ohio and Southern Michigan, is a remarkable record.

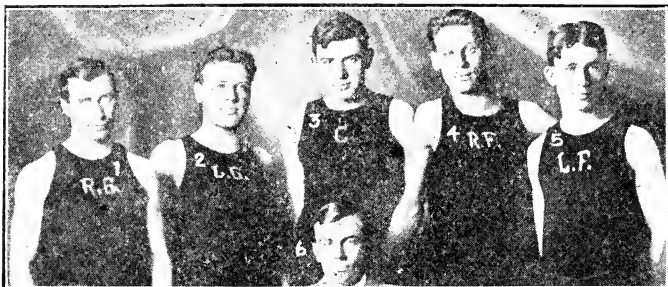

Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.—Antioch College had one of the fastest basket ball teams last season in Southwestern Ohio, losing but two college games. Sixteen games were played, of which two were lost to independent teams at Lima and Ada, making a total of four lost out of sixteen played. A record like this is one to be proud of and places Antioch among the claimants for collegiate championship. John H. Thornton was the team manager and R. Humphrey assistant.

Ashland (Ky.) High School.—Manager Erwin Cline writes: "The team played seven games during the past season, winning five. One game was lost to the local Y.M.C.A. team, which also defeated most of the college and professional teams of the Tri-State region. The other game was lost by one point to a team which was defeated in another game by a decisive score. No more games were played for the reason that there was a scarcity of teams in the high school towns of the region. From the result of the schedule and from comparative scores, we claim the interscholastic championship of the Tri-State region within a radius of sixty miles."

Basket Ball in Texas

By W. E. METZENTHIN,

Director of Outdoor Athletics, University of Texas.

College basket ball in Texas is of comparatively recent origin and is even now far from universally established, the University of Texas, Baylor University, Fort Worth Polytechnic Institute and Southwestern University being the only colleges in the State supporting teams this past season. But, aside from the colleges, it has not been very many years since basket ball made its initial bow to Texas sport-lovers, the little town of Cuero boasting one of the first championship teams in the State, until a few years later the Galveston Y.M.C.A. wrested the championship from them. And for a while the Y. M. C. A. practically monopolized this branch of athletic activity, San Antonio, Fort Worth and Waco all putting out fairly creditable teams from year to year. The preparatory and high schools soon followed the example the Y. M. C. A. set them, and in their turn produced some lively teams, the colleges being about the last to show a fitting appreciation of the value of this form of sport.

The season just past has marked a distinct advance both in the interest manifested and the quality of game played. Among the Y. M. C. A. teams, Galveston and Fort Worth ran each other a close race for first honors in the State, with Fort Worth having a shade the better of the argument.

Among the preparatory schools, the Allen Academy has perhaps maintained the highest standard, closing the season with a practically undefeated team. The University of Texas and Baylor University fought it out for first place among the colleges, Texas perhaps going strongest at the end of the season, inasmuch as it defeated both Baylor and Fort Worth Polytechnic, albeit by close scores.

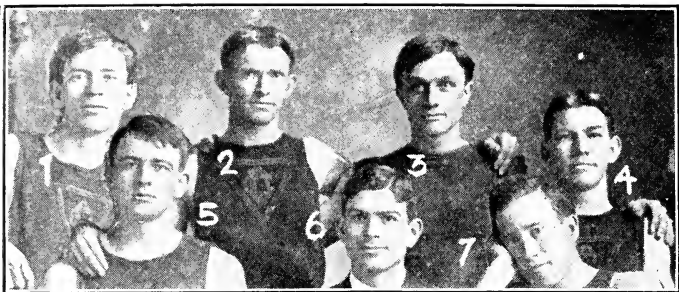

There remains no doubt that next season will witness a decided advance, both quantitative and qualitative, among all the institutions in the State, and it is to be hoped that a firmer and more permanent organization will be effected.

From my observation of the games played, and after mature deliberation, I have selected the following men as an All-Texas Collegiate team:

Forwards—Tom Moore, Texas, and Massingill, Texas. Center—H. Moore, Baylor. Guards—Fickett, Baylor, and Thomas, Texas.

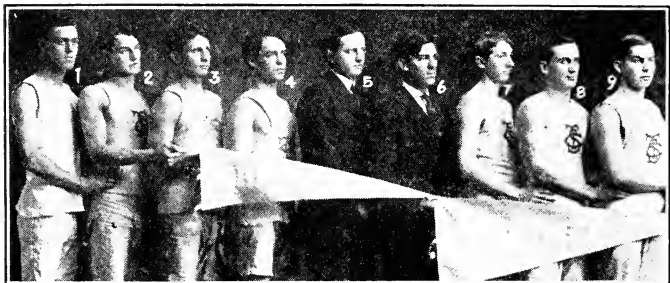

Clay Center (Kans.) High School.—The high school had a hard schedule last season, but acquitted themselves with honor, winning sixteen out of seventeen games played, the defeat being at the hands of the Kansas University freshmen. In the interscholastic basket ball tournament held at Kansas University in March, 1910, Clay Center took first prize. R. T. O'Neil is the manager.

Ashland (Wis.) Whirlwinds.—The Ashland Whirlwinds claim the basket ball championship of this part of the state for teams of their size, average height being 5 feet 8 inches. The following is a statement of the accomplishments of the team this season by the manager, Percy Powell: "By defeating the Y.M.C.A. team in a very close game, the Ashland Whirlwinds won the championship of this city and region, the final score being 20 and 21 in favor of the Whirlwinds. The team has met but one defeat this year, and that was on account of the size of the opponents, Northland College, and the Whirlwinds split even, each taking a scheduled game. The former won a practice game from the latter, and from the fact that they would not enter into the championship series the Whirlwinds can justly claim the championship of this region." The members of the team were: Curry and Paton, forwards; Dopp and Binsfeld, guards; Ziehlendorf, center; Lochester, sub-guard.

Army Basket Ball at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

BY GEORGE R. EDWARDS.

The season 1909-10 witnessed the birth of another league in St. Louis basket balldom, that of the Jefferson Barracks Basket Ball League, composed of six teams.

Each company in the post, as well as the hospital corps, entered teams in the race, and the closing games of the season, even though played in what might be termed summer weather, brought forth such large attendances as to demonstrate the fact that the future seasons will be looked forward to by many who for the first time have witnessed the game.

As is usually the case in the service, the rivalry during the season was intense, resulting in some few instances in some fairly rough work on the floor. In the main, however, considering the fact that many of the players were having their first experience with the game, the playing was all that could be desired.

The Hospital Corps team was first in the race, having lost but one game of the entire series, and this when the team was hardly organized and in no fit playing condition. Conklin, at forward, was easily the star, nearly two-thirds of the score of every game resulting from his superior work.

The Twenty-third Company took second position. This team did not strike their real stride until after the season was well started, and when in final playing form, were too far behind the leaders to overtake them.

The other team which "got in the money," the Twenty-seventh Company, was speedy but light, and towards the end of the season was compelled to put a makeshift team on the floor, due to the loss of Thorpe and Knowlan from injuries.

The Sixteenth Company, Eighteenth Company and Fifteenth Company finished in the order named. The Sixteenth Company at the commencement of the season was thought to have as good a team as any and were considered one of the main contenders for the pennant. Towards the close, however, the loss of a great number of their regulars compelled the forfeiture of two games, which dropped them from second to fourth place.

The Eighteenth Company showed a strong reversal of form all through and finished fifth. This team was composed of men, nearly all of whom knew and played the game before. They were thought to be the best at the start, but for some reason could not get going quite right and did not finish quite as well as it was thought they would.

The team which brought up the rear, the Fifteenth Company, had hard luck during all of the playing season. It was not until the last two games that it was possible to get the same team together on the floor for a game, and as a consequence team-work was lacking.

No attempt was made to organize a post team for playing games with fives in St. Louis, owing to the fact that the schedule here did not end until March 31, at which time it was too late to arrange such contests.

The following has been picked as being what I consider a representative team composed of the best players:

Right forward—Conklin, Hospital Corps; left forward—Thorpe.

1, H. Vruwink; 2, Van Bronkhorst; 3, Coy; 4, M. Verburg; 5, J. Verburg, Mgr.; 6, J. Vruwink; 7, Veenker, Capt.; 8, LeVan; 9, Stegeman.

MORGAN & WRIGHT TEAM, DETROIT, MICH.

Twenty-seventh Company; centers—Powers, Hospital Corps; right guard—Bochnick, Sixteenth Company; left guard—McLaughlin, Twenty-seventh Company.

At right forward Conklin easily demonstrated his superiority over any other forward competing. His shooting, passing and dribbling was all that could be wished and was finished in every respect. As second to him I would choose McCrary of the Twenty-third Company. While this player was light, he nevertheless used good judgment in tossing baskets and played an excellent game in general.

I have chosen Thorpe of the Twenty-seventh Company for left forward for practically the same reason I chose Conklin. Thorpe was decidedly light, but made up for his lack of weight with exceptional speed and endurance. He was in the game from start to finish and would lead most any guard a merry chase. Hooked up with Conklin the play would be fast and furious. Second to Thorpe would be hard to choose. Daubenberger, Sixteenth Company, Baker, Twenty-third Company, and Kazlowski, Eighteenth Company, were equally good. Either should acceptably fill the position.

Powers, Hospital Corps, is the only one I can see for center. This man was very tall and heavy and with it all was fairly fast. This was his first experience on the floor and another season should develop him into an exceptional player. His jumping was first class and his height enabled him to make many a basket which otherwise would have been impossible. Second choice would be Chamberlin, Eighteenth Company, or Reynolds, Twenty-third Company. Chamberlin would probably be best, because Reynolds lacked the necessary experience. The latter, however, with a little more seasoning should make good.

Bochnick, Sixteenth Company, and McLaughlin, Twenty-seventh Company, I would take as guards, owing to their decided determination to cover their man. Bochnick thoroughly understands the game, is clever with a ruse and good at passing and getting the ball out of danger. McLaughlin played center on the Twenty-seventh Company five, but demonstrated his ability by his all-round good playing during the entire schedule of games. Coupled with his ability to cover and pass he possesses the weight and height necessary to make a good guard. Knowlan, Twenty-seventh Company, and Beatty of the Hospital Corps, are second choice. Knowlan plays an aggressive game, covers well, but is a little rough. Beatty should develop with experience. His main fault lay in his anxiety to do too much, which resulted in penalties.

Reviewing the work of all concerned, too much credit cannot be given the players for the article of ball put up. It is safe to say that the season of 1910-1911 will be a successful one in the league, which has proven to be one of the successes of the fall and winter entertainments at the barracks.

The following is the summary of games and standing of the teams at the finish.

Basket Ball in Colorado

BY W. PYKE JOHNSON, DENVER.

The past season has not been a particularly bright one in the annals of basket ball in this State. While the followers of the sport in the East crowded large halls throughout the winter months, the interest growing more intense as the play progressed, in Colorado, the fans were for the most part apathetic. This was particularly true in Denver and the other larger cities, the smaller towns of the State being more active in their support on account of their more limited round of winter games.

The open winter climate has had much to do with these conditions. But the lack of a systematic organization and league is probably more responsible. Well-played basket ball is one of the most exciting of all indoor contests. It requires of its devotees, speed, nerve and endurance, combined with accuracy and skill, and with proper attention there is no good reason why it should not rank among the foremost sports on the State's amateur calendar. While the public at large has not been generous in its support, under the patronage of certain of the athletic associations and colleges of the State, several teams of the first rank were developed in the early part of the season. Chief among these perhaps were the fives representing Greeley, the local Y. M. C. A., Mines, Colorado and Lafayette. The University of Denver's expected quintet failed to materialize, a number of fraternity and inter-class teams taking its place. Colorado College followed the custom of the past and made no attempt to put a five on the floor.

The race for the so-called independent championship of the State was a spirited one. For a long time it was not certain which five would win, and in fact the closing games of the season decided the title.

The Greeley Arrows, managed and coached by Lloyd B. Neill, former captain of the Denver University quintet, made clear their claim to honors only after a hot battle with the Colorado School of Mines five, by which they had been previously defeated.

In all the Arrows won eleven games, losing two. The Spud Growers won twice from the University of Colorado team, which, by defeating Mines, had tied for the collegiate championship, afterward conceded to the Golden School.

In passing, Lafayette High should receive honorable mention for the style in which the men played. This quintet won seventeen games, going through the season without a defeat, and it is unquestionably deserving of the title of State Scholastic Champions. As the players did not meet any of the older men, however, they are not considered for the State honors.

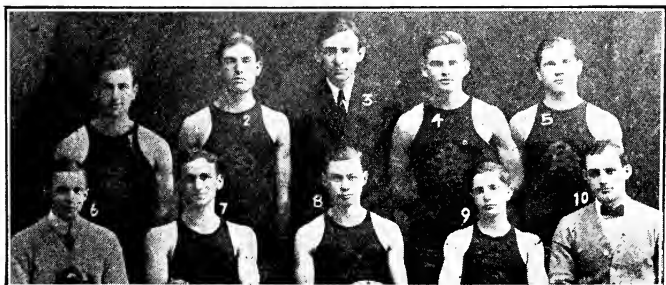

The Greeley Arrows have to their credit the longest list of victories of the big State fives of the season. In thirteen games with teams of recognized standing and not including as many more practice games with smaller aggregations, the Greeley five scored 595 points against 445. Taking up an analysis of the material eligible for the All-Colorado selections, it is soon found that but few teams had men worthy of serious consideration. Such fives as Eaton, Lafayette, Longmont, etc., can be considered only in a selection of juniors or high schools stars, something beyond the scope of this article.

A careful elimination, therefore, brings down the men thought of for place on the honorary five to those on the college teams, the local Y. M. C. A. and the Greeley Arrows.

The first selection goes to the local quintet. Warnecke is the captain of the Y. M. C. A. five and is a player of exceptional experience and ability. He has a reputation as the most finished basket ball thrower in the State. He is cool, never loses his temper or nerve and plays a fast, consistent game at all times. He would make a valuable forward and a possible captain.

McCreery of the Arrows is selected for the other forward. He also is a fine basket thrower and he plays the floor better than any other man in the State. His specialty is team work and recovery of the ball.

Kissock for center is in a class by himself. He can outjump all the other centers and his playing this year was characterized by marvelous basket throwing.

J. Brush at one guard and Wolfe of Mines at the other make a strong combination. The first named player is the type who plays guard and forward also. He rarely fails to get from two to eight baskets and his opponent seldom gets that many. Wolfe did not play the game that caused him to be picked for position before, but his work was still of a character to make him worthy of position. His basket throwing is fast and sure and the all-round playing he does, considering his height, is remarkable.

Hamnet and Gilbert are given positions as subs largely because of the strong, consistent games they have played throughout the year.

The following men in the second five are all heady, cool players, some of them running very close to the first five members.

Second team—McFadden, Colorado, forward; Wilmore, Y. M. C. A., forward; Woodbury, center; Comer, Arrows, guard; King, Y. M. C. A., guard.

THE DENVER SCHOOL LEAGUE.

The Denver high school basket ball season was entirely successful as regards games and attendance and the sport promises to become a popular one with many of the high school enthusiasts.

All the games were hard fought and well played, and afforded much excitement for the spectators. The Manual lads repeated their performance of last year and won the championship after a hard struggle with North Denver, which led until the last of the season.

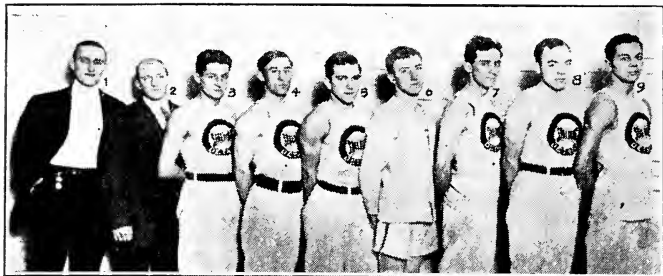

In considering the records no count was made of the games against West Denver. The West Siders had an off year and dropped out of the league soon after the start of the season.

The 1910 Basket Ball Tournament of the Pacific Athletic Association

BY SIDNEY S. PEIXOTTO.

The second annual basket ball tournament of the Pacific Athletic Association came to an end after a very successful series of competitions. The same interest that was displayed in the first tournament seemed to be evident in the tournament of 1910. While the entry list was not quite as large, it was composed of teams representing the different schools and athletic organizations about San Francisco Bay, and the competition throughout was as keen as in the first tournament.

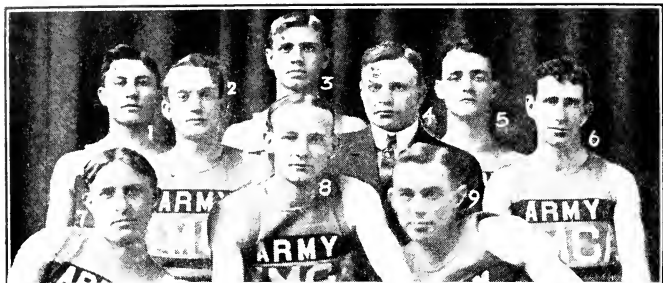

The loss of money on account of transporting teams from the interior to the city served as a guide to the basket ball committee of the 1910 tournament, and it was decided not to pay the expenses of the visiting teams. This tended to eliminate from the contest one of the strongest factors in the former tournament, and the general feeling is that some great effort should be made to bring the teams from the interior towns more in touch with the city teams, as it lends variety and interest to the tournament. It is expected that when the games are arranged next year that some arrangements can be made to get the interest and support from the teams in the interior, as it was arranged in the first tournament.

The tournaments held under the auspices of the Pacific Athletic Association have been productive of great good. They have systematized the conducting of basket ball in California under the weight system, and have created a standard of competition which has been followed all through the year, when teams have visited each other in their own gymnasiums. All stories of roughness and foul play that used to be told by city teams visiting the country teams in their gymnasiums have been practically wiped away. All teams seem to make an effort to hold their play to a standard demanded in the Pacific Athletic Association tournaments at the end of the year, and this has had an important effect in keeping basket ball a clean and healthy sport on the Pacific coast.

I cannot say a better word in favor of basket ball than to make this statement, and I hope that the example set by the Pacific Athletic Association will eventually be carried out by every association in the Amateur Athletic Union. Our annual tournament offers an incentive each year for the teams to get together and work for the championship of the coming year.

The basket ball court of the Pastime club, used by the Pacific Athletic Association, was an excellent one and so arranged that the ball was in constant play during the entire period of play. The side-line play was eliminated and this served to make the game fast and of greater interest to the spectators.

A detailed statement appears in the following account of the work of the different teams. It is unnecessary for me to comment upon the individual showing made by the various teams in the tournament. We all look back upon this tournament of 1910 as an interesting and progressive step in the work of the Pacific Athletic Association, and we feel pledged to carry on another tournament in the spring of 1911.

CALIFORNIA NOTES

Pirates Team, San Francisco, Cal.—The Pirates played eighteen games during the past season, winning ten, from such teams as Cubs, Sacred Heart, Siaplamats, St. James, Bungalows, Fremont High and Billikens. The following defeated the Pirates: Swastikas, St. Ignatius, Siaplamats, Olympics and St. Mary's College.

"The Ponies" of San Francisco.—"The Ponies," winners of the P.A.A. 130-lb. championship in 1909, last season increased their weight from 130 pounds by the addition of three new players. They entered the 145-pound class the past season and won the championship in good fashion. They traveled throughout California and played the best teams, meeting defeat but once and then by the close score of 19 to 17. W. H. Downing is the manager.

Columbia Park Pioneers, San Francisco.—The Pioneers, last year's champions of the 140-pound class, defeated such teams as Lick, Cogswell, Sacred Heart College, Polytechnic and the Sphinx. They lost to the Stockton All Stars by a score of 25 to 30. In the deciding game of the 145-pound class of the P.A.A. tournament, the Pioneers were defeated by the crack Ponies, last year's 130-pound winners. The Pioneers have twice held the P.A.A. championship, being last year's 140-pound class winners.

Stockton (Cal.) High School.—Stockton High School, champions of the Academic Athletic League, won all their games with the exception of one and that was lost to the crack Lodi team, which was later defeated by the champions.

Cogswell (Cal.) High School.—Cogswell won the sub-league championship in the Academic Athletic League by defeating all the San Francisco high school teams. Cogswell defeated Berkeley High in the semi-finals, but lost to Stockton when playing for the championship.

St. Mary's College, Oakland, Cal.—St. Mary's Varsity team passed through a very successful season and ended it with a victory over Santa Clara College, whom they defeated in two games. In all, 16 scheduled games were played, and of these St. Mary's won 11. Besides these games a number of practice games were played with some of the teams of less note around the bay. The large gymnasium enabled the team to keep in good condition and as this is the first time that basket ball has been taken hold of at St. Mary's, there is good reason to think that this college will be well represented in the near future. The Victors, the 110-lb. team of St. Mary's College, had a most remarkable record for the season of 1910. Perhaps no other team on the Pacific Coast engaged in as many games in two seasons as did the Victors in this single year. Out of a total of 40 games played they lost only one.

St. Ignatius College, San Francisco, Cal.—St. Ignatius and Santa Clara colleges engaged in a series of three games. The first, played at Santa Clara, went to St. Ignatius, as did the second. Other fives to meet similar defeat were Sphinx, Pirates and the Smilers. The Olympic Club defeated St. Ignatius, 34 to 30.

Christian Brothers' College, Sacramento, Cal.—Although it was their first experience the representatives of the C.B.C. made an excellent record. The Giants entered the Senior League and the Midgets the Junior. The Giants proved to be clever players and so won out. The Midgets had a difficult time getting admission to the league, it being claimed that they were too small, but they finally got in and won out. Because of their size they were nicknamed "Little Fellows." The feature of their game was that of passing the ball underhand. In the Senior league the results were: Giants, won 9, lost 3; Tigers, won 7, lost 5; Yankees, won 5, lost 7; Pirates, won 4, lost 8. The Junior league: Little Fellows, won 10, lost 2; Cubs, won 7, lost 5; Victors, won 4, lost 8; Buicks, won 3, lost 9. The Midgets played a number of games outside the league, defeating the Sacramento Turn Verein, eleven games to one; Sutter School, three games, and Rocklin, six games.

Berkeley (Cal.) High School.—Berkeley High last season won the Alameda League championship of the Bay Counties Athletic League. The team also defeated all high schools with the exception of Cogswell, the winners of the semi-finals in the Academic Athletic League.

GENEVA (OHIO) HIGH SCHOOL TEAM.

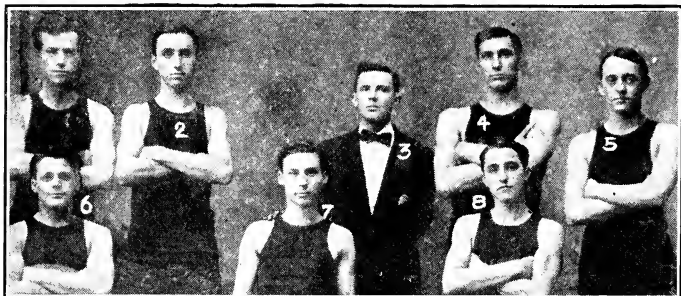

State Normal School, Oakland, Cal.—Last season was the first year of basket ball at the school and considering this fact, the supporters of the Yellow and White had a team that performed remarkably well. At the beginning of the season eight men, six of whom had never played, answered the call for players. Under the careful coaching of Manager Adis Price and Captain Don Marshman they soon picked up the points of the game and kept many of the older teams hustling. The outlook for the coming year is very promising and with the entrance of some new students who will take the place of those that graduated the supporters of the team expect to have one of championship caliber.

Y.M.C.A. Church Basket Ball League, Berkeley, Cal.—The Y.M.C.A. Church Basket Ball League of Berkeley, Cal., was organized early in 1910 and the entering teams were divided into A and B sections. The following officers were elected: C. S. Rathbone, chairman; W. B. Esterly, vice-chairman; C. E. Thomas, treasurer; W. L. Seawright, secretary. Herbert Jones, a local hatter, put up a pennant for the winner for Class A, and Glessner-Morse, the local Spalding representative, did the same for the winner in Class B. L. H. Service, a local jeweler, presented the league with a permanent cup, the name of the winner of the tournament to be engraved on it each year. Trinity M. E. Church Team No. 2 won in Class B, not losing a game. The Baptist team and the Presbyterian team tied for first place. Owing to the unqualified success of the league the officials have decided to make it a permanent affair.

Eastern College Championship

At the close of the Eastern college basket ball season of 1910 many experts awarded the Eastern college championship to the Columbia University team. A number of colleges disputed the selection, notably West Point, University of Rochester, New York University, and others. That a fair presentation of their claims might be made the publishers of Spalding's Official Basket Ball Guide wrote to the managers of several of the teams and requested them to give their reasons for their claims to the championship. Their answers are given herewith:

BY LIEUT. J. W. STILWELL, UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 30, 1910.

MR. JAS. E. SULLIVAN,
American Sports Publishing Co.,
New York.

DEAR SIR:

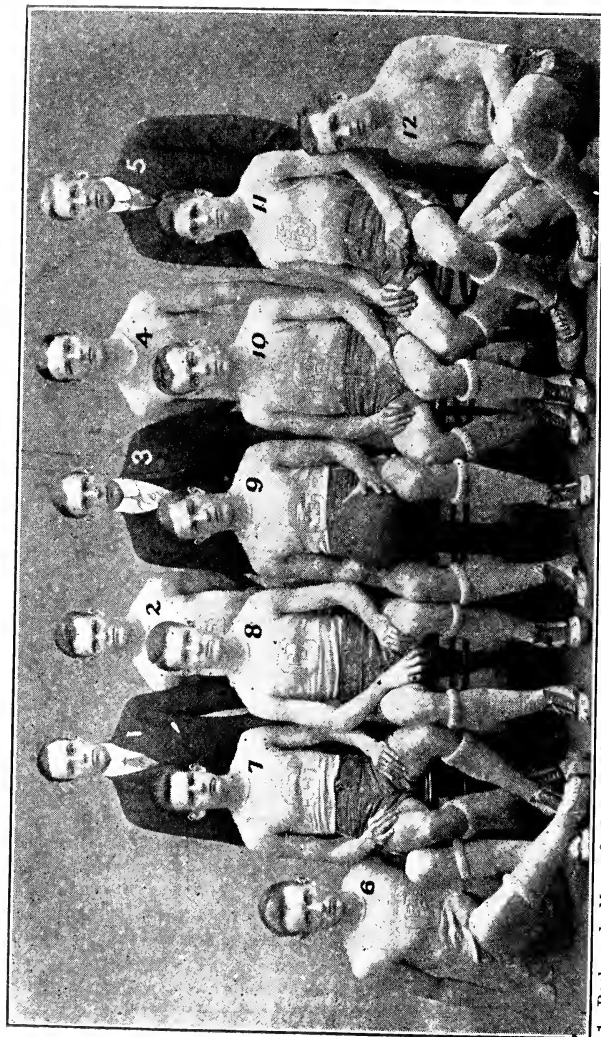

In answer to your communication of the 9th inst., I have the honor to submit the following:

West Point's claim to the Eastern championship is based on her record of fourteen victories and one defeat, the latter being by only one point after four extra periods of play. The Army team won decisively from Manhattan, Brooklyn Polytechnic, Penn State, Trinity, Yale, Union, Pennsylvania, Georgetown, Colgate, Brown, Franklin and Marshall and New York University. Swarthmore won her game by one point, but on the other hand was beaten by teams that the Army defeated—New York University and Penn State. It is impossible to compare the Army team with Rochester, Columbia, and Williams, except by comparative scores; but as Williams played no teams outside of New England, except Syracuse, as it was Columbia herself who cancelled her game with the Army, and as Rochester could only break even with Colgate and New York University, under such a method of comparison, the Army team appears to have a good claim on first honors in the East.

The objection is sometimes raised that West Point never plays away from home; but it must be remembered that under the strict military discipline at the Point, there arise many difficulties and obstacles unknown in the civilian schools that more than compensate for any assumed advantage of position in playing on the home floor.

In view of the great amount of discussion on the subject of the Eastern championship, further talk seems fruitless, and the Army is willing to abide by the decision arrived at after a careful consideration of her record.

The subject of an All-Eastern team is more difficult of solution this year than ever before. Many of the smaller colleges are producing fine teams, and unless one sees them all play, injustice may very possibly be done to a brilliant player. It would be more satisfactory to list the best players without regard to their relative merits and say, for example, that So-and-so are the best forwards of the year, So-and-so the best guards, and So-and-so the best centers, making the choice a sort of roll of honor, such as Mr. Camp produced last year in foot ball. Probably a more satisfactory conclusion could be reached in this way than in any other. Picking an All-Eastern team becomes otherwise a matter of individual opinion that carries weight only in proportion to the reputation of the man who makes the selection. Unfortunately, I was unable to see the Williams team in action, and so know their players only by reputation, but the other Eastern teams I have seen a good deal of and am satisfied that the best selection of individuals for an All Eastern team would be as follows:

Forwards—Kiendl of Columbia and Harmon of Rochester.

Center—Broadhead of New York University.

Guards—Cophthorne of West Point and Eberle of Swarthmore.

As a second team, I would name:

Forwards—Wachenfeld of New York University and Conard of West Point.

Center—Heskowitz of C. C. N. Y.

Guards—Girsdansky of New York University and Benson of Columbia.

Any arguments advanced in defense of this choice would of course be just as much a matter of opinion as the choice itself, but all who have seen these men play will at once recognize the reasons for which they have been chosen.

Thanking you for your kindness in opening the columns of the GUIDE to others than the usual "authorities" (?) and for your interest in the Army team, I am

Respectfully,

Thanking you for your interest and trusting that this will be satisfactory.

Very sincerely,

We believe we have a claim to the championship, although the team suffered four defeats: one to Rochester and one to Colgate, both of which teams were defeated on our court. The last two defeats were due to the fact that the team was crippled by so many games in a short period of time—nine in little over a month.

I would like to suggest the following names for an All-America basket ball team:

- Left guard—Campbell, Colgate University.
 Center—Broadhead, New York University.
 Right forward—Harmon, University of Rochester.
 Right guard—Girsdansky, New York University.

The Cornell Daily Sun had the following to say:

"Columbia is easily the champion basket ball five in the country as a result of this season's play, winning every game, and scoring 165 points to 80 by opponents. New York University was a strong contender, but toward the close of the season lost to Wesleyan, Colgate, Rochester, and West Point, spoiling the unbeaten record of the first half. Besides Columbia, Williams, Rochester, Colgate, and Wesleyan all made good records. Pennsylvania, Yale, and Princeton totalled a much smaller score than did their opponents, ranking in the above order."

Duties of the Captain, the Manager and the Coach

BY EDWIN S. CONNER.

THE CAPTAIN.

The captain is the important man when it comes to the game. Generally he is elected to the position because his team-mates think that he will make the best leader. After such a place is given him he must show by his actions and bearing that he means to give the best that is in him for the interest of the team. No man of the squad is more interested and more eager to turn out a winner than he is. So it is up to him to keep the spirit at top-notch all the time. To do this, it is well for him to show a dash, an alertness and a fight which will spur the others on. He must know the rules so well that he is able to tell what they are at a minute's notice. With fair play on his lips and a determination to set the pace for the others, he will make a good captain.

His real work comes as soon as the team is on the floor. From then until the end of the game, he is the master of every situation which may arise. At the beginning of the game, it is well to flip a coin for choice of goal and to have an understanding with the opposing captain in the presence of the officials about the rules and ground rules necessary for the contest. Call the men together and explain the conditions under which the game is to be played. With everything well agreed upon the game ought to run off quickly and smoothly. With the first blow of the whistle, the captain should assume all rights of his position and see to it that they are strictly carried out. If an appeal is to be made to an official, it should be made the right way, then the captain should weigh it well before going to the official. Unless a decision is directly contrary to the rules, it is best to make the disputes as few as possible.

While the game is in progress the captain must direct the play the best that he knows how. If things are breaking badly, call the players together, for some of them may see a way out. Do not depend upon the coach too much. He will probably be ready to give advice between halves. Keep a close watch on the plays and players. Often the game will drop down because a man is all in or is shirking. In either case the quicker he gets out the better. A substitute will play a stronger game.

When on the defence, work hard to solve the opponents' system of play. The minute that you find something that will break it up, let the others know. If on the offensive, you find that they are breaking up your style of play, do not hesitate about changing it. Keep the others guessing what you are going to do next.

Treat the visitors as well as you can. Keep their best respect by showing them that you are glad to meet them. At the time when a dicker is made for choice of goal, the courtesy of granting the visitors their choice is always appreciated. Never look for an advantage unless you realize that your team is weaker. There is always a lot of pleasure in defeating a team with its strongest line-up. Often players are filled with joy when they hear that a good player on the opposing team is laid up. There isn't much credit in defeating a sub-team or a team that is not in shape. Keep the spirit of such a nature that you are not satisfied unless you defeat the best there is and conquer them fairly.

If you are going to play a game, don't protest it before the game. Either play or quit. Protests are never in good taste or in the true spirit of the game. It helps to keep the tone of the game in a low key.

As soon as the game is over, call the men together and give a yell. Show your opponents that you are game to the core whether you win or lose. Teams that can take a defeat are the ones which ought to win. Never leave the floor disgusted because things did not break your way. Begin right then planning for the next game. Your turn will come later.

In choosing a line-up it is well to consider what constitutes a good player. If a man is in condition, knows the game and likes to play, he will generally make good. Sometimes men who are out of condition play well, but what could they do if they were in good shape. The training of the captain often decides what will be good for the others. If he is willing to sacrifice a few things to the welfare of the team, the others are not slow in following his example. Such a spirit is always catching and if it gets started, it goes a long ways towards running through the team. The captain must be the leader off the floor as well as on it.

What you are the team will be. What you demand the team will fight for. So it is up to you, the captain, to do all in your power to make the game clean, popular and wholesome.

THE MANAGER.

Many duties fall on the shoulders of a manager for which he gets but little or no credit. Yet he is the man who keeps the machine oiled and in good running order. Everything crosses his path during the season that can be thought of. So it follows that he must be one of the most essentially well qualified men in connection with the team.

The following are among the many duties which he has to perform. First, the making out of a schedule; second, the choice of floors for the game; third, the choice of officials; fourth, the financial condition of the team; fifth, the attention given to visiting teams; sixth, the team on a trip; seventh, the record and the report of the games. Other things will come up but can be attended to at the time.

A good schedule is of vital importance to the welfare of a team. It keeps not only the players enthusiastic with something to look forward to, but also all of the followers of the game are interested. If it is made out so that the hard games come as the season advances, it will greatly aid in the final standing. This will help to work the men to an edge, which is the time for the hardest and closing game. Still care should be taken to arrange the games in regular order, so that they do not come too near together or too far apart. Of course, the maturity and the condition of the men determine the frequency of the dates. Boys ought to be contented to play for a season of ten weeks, with one game a week. Men can play more often, but there is a question as to its advisability. Make the schedule as short as the season warrants, with no open dates to interfere with the interest of the game. If outside trips are planned, it is well to make them at the beginning of the season. Let nothing interfere with the games which mean most to the team.

Often a manager is able to save himself a lot of trouble by entering a league. If there is no such organization it is well for several managers to get together and form one. Then all of the teams will play up to the same standard, be nearer equal in strength, have the same object in mind and will be governed by the same board. This means more than it seems to at first glance. For when all are made to observe the same rules and agree to abide by them good results are sure to follow.

Again the managers of the different teams might meet to discuss and agree upon the rules. At this meeting it would be possible to have the prospective officials present to help determine the meaning of the rules. With such a combined understanding and agreement of the rules, it means better enforcement and a more satisfactory and a finer game all around.

The manager of the independent team has a hard job on his hands. Between such teams there is very little in common and the games are likely to be of a low grade. Often the strength of a team, the age of the players, etc., is misstated so that a team of boys line up against a team of men. Schedules should be made according to the strength of the team. It should never be under-rated. If there is any glory in a victory, it comes by beating the best there is. Sometimes teams will back out at the last minute. To meet this a contract should be drawn up at the time of the agreement to the effect that the team canceling the game within three weeks of the date shall forfeit to the other team a certain sum of money. This should be signed by both managers. As soon as teams that really want to play basket ball and live up to its spirit can be found, fix a game with them. Drop as far as possible all the flend teams and stick to the ones that live nearest to the heart of the game. In time this will bring good basket ball.

As soon as the schedule is out of the way and the rules are fixed upon, find out the size, kind and other particulars of the floor. Make it a rule to play on floors as near to the size of the one used in practice as possible. Because of the change of floors many teams of A-1 caliber have been defeated by a second-rate five. Make the conditions for both teams as nearly equal as possible. Don't invite "the crane to dinner and feed him from a plate." Be square and demand squareness.

Most always the kind of a game played depends to a great extent upon the officials. Be sure that you engage the best there is in the place. Get the ones who are filled with the spirit of the game and who know the rules well. Such men are scarce. So when you find one who knows, can see and has the backbone to call, stick to him. Not only your team needs the man, but the game needs him. Nine times out of ten the game turns out to be just what the officials make it. Too often the officials don't care for much but the fee which is tagged to the end of the game. If they demand pay, pay them well enough to demand a good job.

Whatever money comes to the team comes by the planning of the manager. The financial condition is generally in poor shape. Nothing is more encouraging than to start the season with a clean slate and finish with something to the good. Plan the expenses on a scale that can be met. If possible get some man or business house to furnish the men with uniforms. Then live well within the means of good credit. Do not go away or have a team come to your place unless the expenses are a sure thing. It is hard for the players to go into their pockets for the support of the team. Look long and plan well the money account.

For the interest of the men, keep score and every little while post a record of the work of the players. This together with a good report of the games will keep the spirit away up where it belongs. Make it a point to report your own games. In doing this try to be fair and give each one who was in the game credit for what he did. Don't fail to have the game in the papers.

In a word, a manager should be a wide-awake hustler who is ready to drop whatever he has if he can find something better. He should be proud of the game which he represents and whatever step he takes should be in the direction of putting it on a higher plane and on a more solid foundation.

THE COACH.

The coach of the present day means more to the men who are under him than the leader of any other profession. He is the "Mecca" of their thought and whatever he says or does always seems right to them. He can teach them any kind of a game and they will do all that is in their power to follow his instructions. They long for his advice and company and will stick to him through thick and thin. This close touch with them gives him a chance to mould into their games elements of a quality which will influence them through life.

The real importance of the coach will be more felt in the future than ever before. Not long ago a victory would stamp his success. In many cases his job depended upon the number of games won. To this end he must turn out a winning team. Two things were necessary. First, men who were physically fit; second, a variety of play that would smother an opponent. When his men went on to the floor, he knew they would meet a team fully as strong and equally as well trained in all departments of the game. To get some kind of an advantage tactics of a low nature were allowed which might turn the tide of battle and bring the much-sought crown of glory. Things which were on hand, could be borrowed or could be invented, were introduced. This ate out the heart of the game until it was considered by many as a public nuisance. No game however strong will last unless it is a living example of the spirit which it represents. In order to make the game what it was intended to be, a stronger demand must be made by all for the best there is in it. As soon as the coach demands the elimination of the evil tendencies and makes his work develop and stand for the elements of fairness in all things, his profession will be more appreciated by all.

Nothing detracts from a game more than a lax interpretation of the rules. Ignoring the rules or their spirit is disregarding the rights of others. The rules must be taught. They are a wholesome part of the game. The man who can see a chance to crawl around a rule and breaks away from its meaning is doing a great injustice to a team and also to the game. Keep at all times well within the bounds of what the game ought to be. It is easy to let the rules go. The audience knows very little about them. They get their opinion of the game as it is played and report it to others who imagine the game far different from what it really is. If the coaches are proud of the game that they teach, they must teach and demand better knowledge and better enforcement of the rules.

There are a few things which mean a great deal to the team. Often a young coach will try to develop the team too quickly. He has a lot of material on hand, but does not consider the time it took to get it. With young and inexperienced men a great deal of patience and time must be spent. The coaching that is given must be of a simple nature. Complex plays demand too much time and are beyond the ability of the player, and they also demand frequent and long practice, which calls for so much energy that by mid-season the whole squad is stale. When the contest comes the players will be up against plays which they cannot work. The time has been thrown away. So teach things that will be used. A fellow cannot go beyond his ability. The team will develop faster by giving them a few easy plays, each new one to come only after the old one has been well learned. The team must be a machine. A simple one that will work is better than a complicated one that will not. Then of course older men in experience can be worked longer, harder and given more different plays. Yet mature players are often out of condition for the hardest game. Too much practice is often the reason for a poor showing.

The length and frequency of practice is an important factor. Too much work will kill a good team. Here the age and the experience of the players must be considered. Most players, unless watched, will go beyond the point of all that is good for them. Try to make the practice of a limited length. Demand that the players are dressed and on hand at the appointed time. Never allow them to wait. Have the practice and get through as planned. Boys should not be encouraged to practice more than two (2) hours weekly and thirty (30) minutes a day is plenty, while for men the time spent for the best work should not exceed three hours a week. The preliminary work, if light, may run for a long time, but the actual scrimmage should not be longer than the contest. This will put the men in the best possible condition.

A strong, well-trained team speaks very highly of the coach. Nothing is more pleasing to the coach than a team which has been drilled until it is a machine. The team must be fast, sure and in order. It must take every advantage of an opponent. It must have a variety of play so that a change can be made if it becomes necessary. Endurance and coolness throughout the game will help to make the pace too strong for most to follow. The team-work must be filled with accurate, well-timed passing which ends in goal throwing. A team that can handle itself as a unit has been well coached.

All of the work should be in behalf of the team. Individual playing must not be allowed for a minute. When the star begins to get out of his true course in the basket ball system, the whole thing goes wrong. Shining will never win basket ball games unless all five shine.

The value of good condition is always felt during the game. With a good style of play and the boys in good condition, there can be but little doubt as to the kind of game played. The word of the coach will go as far toward good training as that of anyone. He should demand that the players eat wholesome food and that they get plenty of rest. If each man is expected to live right during the season he will generally do it. The fellows must be made to feel that this is true. It isn't a case of watching over a fellow; it is a case of his willingness not to do the thing which hurts him. Encourage the boys to take a good bath with a brisk rub-down following the practice. The bath had better come before the player begins to cool off.

Many coaches coach from the side lines. If this is legal, then it is all right, but if the rules forbid it, it is poor policy. For it is hard to teach a rule if the teacher cannot keep one himself. This comes to the point as to whether it is the skill of the coach or the skill of the player that he has trained that is being shown. It is the best plan to do everything in connection with the game as it should be done.

Advise and encourage the players before the game. Watch their playing. Correct it during the time between halves and let them do the rest.

Teach each man what is expected of him. Let him understand that he is to give what he has in him to the game. If things arise which are against him, have him tell the captain, who will see to the trouble. Many teams are run without the players having any idea of what they are to do. This means poor basket ball.

The coaches must work more for the popularity and love of the game than for the victory. If they do not some other game will take the place of basket ball.

Basket Ball in the Ranks

BY THOMAS E. HUGHES.

It can be truthfully said that no class of competitive athletics is so well adapted to the needs and conditions of the soldier as basket ball. In fact, basket ball is the only one of the three most popular sports that is absolutely practicable in army life. The various duties to which the soldier is subject, especially during the outdoor seasons of the year, make it difficult to get consistent, systematic training for outdoor sports. Often, too, after games have been scheduled for outdoor contests the manager on the appointed day is very much embarrassed to find a number of his strongest men on duty. Special permit, though, is sometimes given to the first teams of the post to participate in the scheduled games, but this applies to but few and does not help the great mass of athletes who are equally interested in these recreative contests.

Basket ball, however, is both applicable and practicable for the enlisted men of the army. It meets the needs of the soldier in a great many ways. From the simple fact that it can be learned and played at night the boy in the ranks takes great consolation. During the winter season the regular military duty is very light, consequently it is at this time that the soldier needs most the recreation that can be gotten from basket ball. The violence with which basket ball can be played and the endurance required to play it are both to the soldier's liking. He feels that he can get more exercise from one hour's work at this game than from three or four hours' indulgence in ordinary gymnastics and calisthenics.

At various posts throughout the country during the season of 1909-10 special emphasis was given to the regimental leagues. These leagues helped to arouse much local interest, since very often every company of the regiment was represented in the league by the strongest team it could possibly organize. The fact that there is much rivalry among the companies of a regiment along lines other than athletics helps to intensify the interest and enthusiasm in regimental league basket ball, and bids fair to perpetuate the sport as the most popular in army athletics.

The universality of basket ball as the leading sport in army life cannot be doubted. It is played in the forts of the most rural districts of the Philippine Islands, as well as in all the prominent posts of the homeland. Fort William McKinley, P. I., during the season of 1909-10 developed the strongest team in the islands, having defeated all the leading army teams as well as the strongest civilian teams in and about Manila. Presidio, Cal., was represented by an unusually strong team, winning against the fastest local teams and some strong teams from San Francisco. Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, went through their heavy schedule without a defeat. All the eastern posts, Fort Niagara, Fort Slocum, Fort Monroe, etc., were intensely interested in basket ball and were represented by fast teams.

The success of basket ball in the ranks is due largely to three evident conditions. In the first place, every post of any size is well supplied with modern, well-equipped gymnasiums. And besides the regular post gymnasiums the large forts have army Y. M. C. A.'s which furnish additional floors, making it possible for a great number of men to participate in the game. In the second place, many of the men have had experience at basket ball in Y. M. C. A.'s and athletic clubs while in civilian life. In the third place, the superior physical condition of the men from whom the teams are chosen is an important factor.

Changes in the Rules

The GUIDE for 1910-11 has articles from nearly every State in the Union, and one can form an excellent idea of the growth of the game by carefully reading the same.

Judging by the correspondence received at this office during the season just closed, the rules have met with general approval. The dribble rule has been the center of both favorable and unfavorable comment. The leaders of physical training, who do not actually play, but who have the welfare of the game at heart, advise eliminating the rule altogether; those who manage teams for prospective profit advise taking the restrictions off and permit throwing for goal at end, as they claim the spectators want more spectacular playing. If the rules were framed for spectators this argument would have weight.

Some conservatives suggest permitting the use of two hands simultaneously twice, once when the ball is caught and once when it is passed to another player at end of dribble.

Some have made suggestions which were tried some years ago and proved utter failures.

One correspondent suggested that one point be awarded for each foul. This has been under discussion for the past two years, and, after studying the same from every standpoint, the committee has voted not to adopt it this season.

This feature can be used to advantage where there is a system comprising one class of members under control of one individual, such as playgrounds, public schools, Y. M. C. A's, etc., where it is possible for the officials to be selected by this salaried official and from a list of salaried teachers who, in the main, are unbiased.

Where the officials are selected by the players it put too much responsibility on that official, and where ignorance of the rules is prevalent an official could easily award the game to either team by a misinterpretation of the rules.

So the committee has voted against the adoption of this suggestion this season.

All the suggestions received have been duly considered from every viewpoint, and if your suggestion has not been adopted this season it may be incorporated in the code next year.

The committee receive letters from two classes of correspondents, those who think the rules entirely too strict and those who think them too lax; so the committee find it necessary to strike the happy medium, always keeping in mind the principles that will produce a clean, snappy, vigorous game.

Changes have been made in the following Sections of Rule XI., Sections 5, 6, 13, 15, 34.

DIAGRAM OF BASKET BALL FIELD, SHOWING POSITION OF FIVE-MAN TEAM.

How to Score Basket Ball

By LUTHER HALSEY GULICK, M.D.

The increased use of the score book last year resulted in the teams getting down to more scientific playing. Better records were kept, and the managers were able to size up their men more accurately. This score book is almost a necessity to the manager of a team who wishes to keep accurate record of all his players; who made the fouls, and what kind of fouls; who made the goals, and under what conditions they were made. A sample page for a single team is herewith given. In the first column is found the names of the team and the players; in the second column, the goals that were made during the first half. In this column will be found three sets of marks: an X, which is a goal from the field; an O, which is an attempted goal from a free throw, but which was missed, and an X inside of an O, which means a goal thrown from a free throw. The X, of course, counts two points, the O nothing and the X inside an O, one point. At the bottom of the column is the total number of points made during that half. In the third column are the fouls. First, is A1. By referring to the bottom of the page, under the head of FOULS, we see that A1 is for delaying the game. This foul, together with A5 and A4, was made by John Jones. If A. P. Yost had made another Class B foul, he would have been disqualified. In the second half, the captain thought that Chas. Brown would best make the free throws, but after two failures, he went back to John Jones, who scored two. A score kept in this way is of the greatest value, and without it a scientific estimate of the men is hardly possible.

Suggestions for Officials

BY GEORGE T. HEPBRON

There was a decided improvement in the efficiency of the officials last season. This is to be expected as the rules became better known and the object of the game better understood; still, there is room for improvement.

The fact that a man is a good player is not sufficient reason for selecting him to be an official. In addition, he must have character and backbone.

If, among others, the following characteristics are exhibited by the officials, the games this season will be better officered, and less friction will be manifested:

1. Instant recognition of a violated rule and the penalty for same.
2. Backbone enough to make a decision and stick to it.
3. Abstinence from fault finding. (The duty of officials is to make decisions—not to lecture the players.)
4. Readiness to explain in the fewest possible words why that particular ruling was made.
5. Willingness to produce the rule as authority for action.
6. Never, under any circumstances, allowing the prolonged discussion of a rule during the progress of the game.
7. Willingness to allow the players the privilege of appeal from his interpretation of the rules to the proper committee.
8. Kindness and courtesy to all and the maintenance of a level head under trying circumstances.
9. A strong purpose to follow the rules in letter and spirit, and a determination not to be susceptible to outside influences.
10. Will not overstep his authority, appreciating at the same time his full duty.
11. Knows the rules so well that a reversal of decision is not necessary.
12. Impartial in all his dealings.

Suggestions for Teams

1. Select a coach that is interested in the well-being of the game and is not blinded with the god of victory.
2. Select a manager that will not lead the team into professional games.
3. Select only competent, impartial officials. If there are none in your locality, develop some.
4. Select teams to play that use only the official rules.
5. Select teams that play with the official ball and save your team from losing a game already won by having the game declared forfeited because another ball was used.
6. Select teams to play that use the official basket ball and have a back ground in accordance with the rules.
7. Select only those teams that abide by the recognized rules, having their games sanctioned and men registered.
8. Select teams to play that have suitable floor space so the spectators do not interfere.
9. Select teams to play that do not allow rowdies in to see the game, to insult your players and create disorder.
10. In short, abide by the rules yourself and insist on others doing likewise or refuse to play them.

A letter addressed to the Secretary of the A. A. U. Basket Ball Committee, P. O. Box 611, New York City, will be courteously treated and information given on interpretation of rules, and the names of the persons to whom you may apply for registration and sanction, etc. Please enclose self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

What to Use for Basket Ball

The conditions in the basket ball rules relating to the ball are extremely rigid. Conforming to these rules strictly, the Spalding ball is a most difficult one to manufacture, because to make the ball uniform in size and weight, each piece of leather must be of the best, and to prevent irregularity in shape only the most experienced and careful workmen can be entrusted with the sewing of the official ball. The Spalding No. M is the official ball stipulated in the rules and must be used in all match games. The cover is made in four sections, with capless ends, and of the finest and most carefully selected pebble grain English leather. Spalding takes the entire output of this superior grade of leather from the English tanners and uses the choicest parts of each hide for the official No. M ball. The bladder is specially made of extra quality Para rubber. The price of the official ball is $6.00. Each ball is packed complete in a sealed box and guaranteed perfect in every detail. The Spalding "Special No. E" is made of fine pebble grain leather and with a bladder of the purest Para rubber, guaranteed. The price of the No. E is $5.00. A very good ball for the money is the Practice "No. 18," a regulation size ball, with a good quality leather cover, which costs $3.00. A very useful article for carrying an inflated ball is a Spalding canvas cover; it costs $1.00. Extra bladders for the official No. M and the No. E balls cost $2.00 each, and for the No. 18 ball $1.25 each.

The official goals specified in the rules are the Spalding No. 80. A unique feature of their construction is that the bottom may be left open if desired, for practice games, so that the ball may readily drop through, and be readily closed by a draw string for match games. The official goals cost $4.00 per pair. No annoying stoppages of the game will occur when these goals are used. The Spalding practice goals, with japanned iron rings and brackets, complete with nets, cost $3.00 per pair.

When the game is played outdoors, it is necessary to have outdoor goals, which consist of a pair of 4 x 6-inch chestnut posts, to which is attached a backstop made of tongue-and-groove chestnut, and furnished complete with a pair of No. 80 official basket ball goals. The woodwork is given two coats of durable outdoor paint, to preserve the wood. The price of a pair of outdoor goals is $40.00.

Sometimes it is not convenient to have backstops put in when arranging a place indoors for basket ball and generally it is next to impossible to find someone who knows how to make them so they will be just right. Spalding backstops are made of seven-eighth inch hardwood, matched and reinforced on the back with three cleats of 2 x 2½-inch material, so that it is only necessary to attach them to the wall by bolting through the cleats, which extend a little above and below the backstops. These backstops cost $20.00 per pair.

Sleeveless shirts for basket ball cost 50 cents, $1.25 and $3.00 according to quality of material—sanitary cotton, cut worsted or best worsted, full fashioned.

In jerseys there is a great variety from which to make a selection. The very best Spalding jersey costs $4.00, from which price they grade to as low as $1.00, the latter being of good quality cotton. Sweaters are a necessary article of every basket ball player's outfit and it is worth while getting a good one. The very best sweater made, same quality as used by all the large colleges, is the Spalding No. AA, which costs $8.00 each, and is certainly the finest specimen made, being exceedingly heavy. Lighter sweaters in the same grade cost $6.00 and $5.00, according to weight. The Spalding shaker sweater is a very good sweater for the money—$3.50. In jacket sweaters the Spalding No. VG, made of best quality worsted, with pearl buttons, in gray and white only, costs $6.00. No. DJ is made in gray and white only, and costs $5.00. No. 3J, in standard weight wool, in plain gray only, costs $3.50. A vest collar sweater, in best quality worsted, in gray or white only, with extreme open or low neck, costs $5.50. For boys a jacket sweater is made in wool, in gray only, for $3.00.

For the expert player the Spalding "Expert" shoe is believed to be the most perfect style ever produced. It has a pure gum thick rubber sole, with special diamond point surface and reinforced edges, to prevent sole spreading, and will enable a player to keep his footing on the most slippery floor. It is made in the highest style of workmanship, of best quality black calf, and laces extremely far down. Owing to the fact, however, that the soles are of pure gum with no compound to harden them, Spalding's do not guarantee them. The price of the No. 6BR, as it is known, is $10.00 per pair.

The Spalding No. AB shoe is made with red rubber suction soles, one-sixteenth of an inch thicker than any that they have made before and the quality is improved. One of the principal advantages of this style of shoe is that it enables the player to obtain a good firm purchase on the floor. It is made of superior quality light drab chrome tan leather and laces extremely far down. No. AB costs $5.00 per pair.

An old favorite is the Spalding No. BB. The uppers are of a good quality black leather and it has suction soles of a good quality of red rubber. The price is $4.00 per pair.

In canvas top basket ball shoes the Spalding No. HH is a very durable and satisfactory shoe. The sole is twice as thick as on the best rubber sole gymnasium shoe, and is made of best quality white rubber. It costs $2.00 per pair.

Various styles of pants are used in basket ball. A pair of good quality gray or white flannel, padded lightly on the hips, cost $1.75; in heavy brown or white canvas, with light padding, $1.00. Full knee length, white silesia pants, padded, cost $1.00, and the same, not padded, 75 cents. Silk ribbon stripes down the sides, cost 25 cents per pair extra. Knee tights cost 50 cents in cotton, $1.25 in cut worsted, and $3.00 in best worsted.

No player should play without a supporter. The No. 5 "Bike" Supporter has been conceded by all as the only jockey strap suspensory. It is clean, comfortable and porous and is made in three sizes. The price is 75 cents. Two other well-known suspensories are the Spalding, which sells from 25 cents to $1.25, according to material used, and the Old Point Comfort at 75 cents to $1.25, depending also on material.

Bandages for the knee cap or ankle are often necessary. Made in cotton thread, they cost $1.50; in silk thread, $2.25. The Spalding Improved Ankle Supporter relieves pain immediately and cures a sprain in a remarkably short time. Made of best quality soft tanned leather, they cost $1.00; in good quality sheepskin, 50 cents, and in black duck, 25 cents.

Every club manager should keep a score book, as he can then tell at a glance how many fouls and goals each man made, enabling him to use it as a guide when coaching his team. The Spalding Score Book, paper cover, for ten games, costs 10 cents, and one with a cloth cover, for twenty-five games, 25 cents.

SPALDING COMBINATION BASKET BALL SUITS

Spalding New and Improved Worsted Jerseys

Following sizes carried in stock regularly in all qualities: 28 to 44 inch chest.
Other sizes at an advanced price.

We allow two inches for stretch in all our Jerseys, and sizes are marked accordingly. It is suggested, however, that for very heavy men a size about two inches larger than coat measurement be ordered to insure a comfortable fit.

Jerseys are being used now more and more by foot ball players instead of canvas jackets. On account of the special Spalding knit, they are very durable, and at the same time they offer no restraint on the free movements of the player.

STOCK COLORS PLAIN COLORS—We carry in stock in all Spalding Stores our line of worsted jerseys (NOT Nos. 12XB, 6 or 6X) in following colors:

White	Black	Maroon

Spalding Exercising Equipment for Home Use

The apparatus listed in this catalogue is designed particularly for private use; i. e., in homes and private gymnasiums. It retains the same superior marks of quality which distinguish the regular line of gymnasium apparatus manufactured by A. G. Spalding & Bros., and which we supply on contract equipment from our Gymnasium Contract Department at Chicopee, Mass.; but its distinctive design permits it to be sold at a price more in keeping with its use than heretofore obtainable, without any sacrifice of practical value or durability. We give below suggestions for moderate priced outfits made up of various apparatus and exercising implements listed in this catalogue. We issue special catalogues showing apparatus which we supply on contract equipment, and copies will be sent to interested parties on application to A. G. Spalding & Bros., Inc., Chicopee, Mass., Gymnasium Contract Department.

Spalding Exercising Equipment for Recreation Rooms

Exercising apparatus, suitable for home use, and not altogether by the boys and girls of the household, but also by the grown-ups; as a matter of fact, the ones who usually require exercise of a rational kind much more than the younger generation, who have the time and inclination for outdoor exercise not possessed by many of their elders—that is what we will attempt to show in this section of our catalogue.

Using Spalding Home Exercising Apparatus, Chest Weights, etc., properly, and in connection with the instructions given in our various Athletic Libraries there is no reason why any man cannot practically renew his youthful vigor by regular exercise.

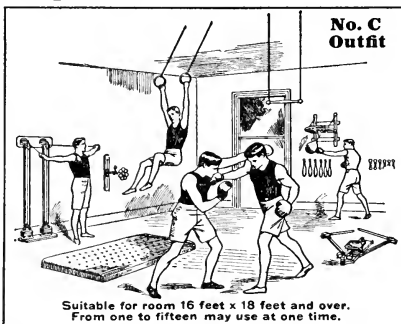

Many banking, mercantile and manufacturing establishments maintain athletic clubs of their employees and have installed Spalding Outfits of Gymnasium Apparatus in their club and recreation rooms for their use. The suggested combinations shown on these pages, illustrate only a few of the sets of exercising apparatus which may be made up from the goods listed in this catalogue.

Spalding Exercising Equipment for Small Athletic Clubs

What are to-day the largest, most prominent and most influential athletic clubs and associations in this country started from small groups of young men banded together originally as base ball, rowing or swimming clubs, and who, with the idea of retaining their organization during the entire year, commenced in a small way and in modest quarters to build up a regular athletic organization covering a number of athletic sports. With the idea of interesting small athletic clubs, we show on this page two medium-priced outfits of gymnasium apparatus suitable for small club rooms. We do not recommend these outfits to clubs with a large membership, or to those who are in shape to have a regular gymnasium in a complete club house. For such organizations, also for schools, colleges and other institutions, we maintain a special contract department, with staff of experts who will gladly give full information regarding the complete line of Spalding Gymnasium Equipment for regular Indoor or Outdoor Playground use. We issue special catalogues showing apparatus that we supply on contract equipment, and copies will be sent to interested parties on application to A. G. Spalding & Bros., Inc., Chicopee, Mass., Gymnasium Contract Department.

Schoolyard Athletics

By J. E. SULLIVAN

President Amateur Athletic Union;
Member Board of Education Greater New York.

THE great interest in athletics that has developed in the public schools within recent years has led to the compilation of this book with a view to the systemization of the various events that form the distinctively athletic feature of school recreation. With its aid any teacher should be able to conduct a successful meet, while the directions given for becoming expert in the various lines will appeal to the pupil. Some of the leading athletes have contributed chapters on their specialties: Ray Ewry, holder of the world's high jump record, tells how to practice for that event; Harry Hillman, holder of the hurdle and three-legged records, gives hints on hurdle racing and three-legged racing; Martin Sheridan, all-around champion of America, gives directions for putting the shot; Harry F. Porter, high jump expert, describes how to become proficient in that event. The book is illustrated with photos taken especially for it in public school yards.

Durand-Steel Lockers

Wooden lockers are objectionable, because they attract vermin, absorb odors, can be easily broken into, and are dangerous on account of fire.

Lockers made from wire mesh or expanded metal afford little security, as they can be easily entered with wire cutters. Clothes placed in them become covered with dust, and the lockers themselves present a poor appearance, resembling animal cages.

Durand-Steel Lockers are made of finest grade furniture steel and are finished with gloss black, furnace-baked japan (400°), comparable to that used on hospital ware, which will never flake off nor require refinishing, as do paints and enamels.

Some of the 8,000 Durand-Steel Lockers Installed in the Public Gymnasiums of Chicago. 12'x 15'x 42", Double Tier.

Durand-Steel Lockers are usually built with doors perforated full length in panel design with sides and backs solid. This prevents clothes in one locker from coming in contact with wet garments in adjoining lockers, while plenty of ventilation is secured by having the door perforated its entire length, but, if the purchaser prefers, we perforate the backs also.

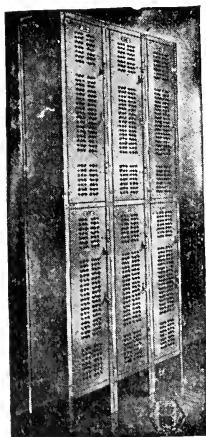

The cost of Durand-Steel Lockers is no more than that of first-class wooden lockers, and they last as long as the building, are sanitary, secure, and in addition, are fire-proof.

THE FOLLOWING STANDARD SIZES ARE THOSE MOST COMMONLY USED:

DOUBLE TIER	SINGLE TIER
12 x 12 x 36 Inch	12 x 12 x 60 Inch
15 x 15 x 36 Inch	15 x 15 x 60 Inch
12 x 12 x 42 Inch	12 x 12 x 72 Inch
15 x 15 x 42 Inch	15 x 15 x 72 Inch

SPECIAL SIZES MADE TO ORDER.

We are handling lockers as a special contract business, and shipment will in every case be made direct from the factory in Chicago. If you will let us know the number of lockers, size and arrangement, we shall be glad to take up, through correspondence, the matter of price.

Standard Policy

A Standard Quality must be inseparably linked to a Standard Policy.

Without a definite and Standard Mercantile Policy, it is impossible for a manufacturer to long maintain a Standard Quality.

To market his goods through the jobber, a manufacturer must provide a profit for the jobber as well as the retail dealer. To meet these conditions of Dual Profits, the manufacturer is obliged to set a proportionately high list price on his goods to the consumer.

To enable the glib salesman, when booking his orders, to figure out attractive profits to both the jobber and retailer, these high list prices are absolutely essential; but their real purpose will have been served when the manufacturer has secured his order from the jobber, and the jobber has secured his order from the retailer.

However, these deceptive high list prices are not fair to the consumer, who does not, and, in reality, is not ever expected to pay these fancy list prices.

When the season opens for the sale of such goods, with their misleading but alluring high list prices, the retailer begins to realize his responsibilities, and grapples with the situation as best he can, by offering "special discounts," which vary with local trade conditions.

Under this system of merchandising, the profits to both the manufacturer and the jobber are assured; but as there is no stability maintained in the prices to the consumer, the keen competition amongst the local dealers invariably leads to a demoralized cutting of prices by which the profits of the retailer are practically eliminated.

This demoralization always reacts on the manufacturer. The jobber insists on lower, and still lower, prices. The manufacturer, in his turn, meets this demand for the lowering of prices by the only way open to him, viz.: the cheapening and degrading of the quality of his product.

The foregoing conditions became so intolerable that, ten years ago, in 1899, A. G. Spalding & Bros. determined to rectify this demoralization in the Athletic Goods Trade, and inaugurated what has since become known as "The Spalding Policy."

The "Spalding Policy" eliminates the jobber entirely, so far as Spalding Goods are concerned, and the retail dealer secures his supply of Spalding Athletic Goods direct from the manufacturer under a restricted retail price arrangement by which the retail dealer is assured a fair, legitimate and certain profit on all Spalding Athletic Goods, and the consumer is assured a Standard Quality and is protected from imposition.

The "Spalding Policy" is decidedly for the interest and protection of the users of Athletic Goods, and acts in two ways:

FIRST—The user is assured of genuine Official Standard Athletic Goods, and the same fixed prices to everybody.

SECOND—As manufacturers, we can proceed with confidence in purchasing at the proper time, the very best raw materials required in the manufacture of our various goods, well ahead of their respective seasons, and this enables us to provide the necessary quantity and absolutely maintain the Spalding Standard of Quality.

All retail dealers handling Spalding Athletic Goods are required to supply consumers at our regular printed catalogue prices—neither more nor less—the same prices that similar goods are sold for in our New York, Chicago and other stores.

All Spalding dealers, as well as users of Spalding Athletic Goods, are treated exactly alike, and no special rebates or discriminations are allowed to anyone.

Positively, nobody; not even officers, managers, salesmen or other employes of A. G. Spalding & Bros., or any of their relatives or personal friends, can buy Spalding Athletic Goods at a discount from the regular catalogue prices.

This, briefly, is the "Spalding Policy," which has already been in successful operation for the past ten years, and will be indefinitely continued.

In other words, "The Spalding Policy" is a "square deal" for everybody.

Standard Quality

An article that is universally given the appellation "Standard" is thereby conceded to be the Criterion, to which are compared all other things of a similar nature. For instance, the Gold Dollar of the United States is the Standard unit of currency, because it must legally contain a specific proportion of pure gold, and the fact of its being Genuine is guaranteed by the Government Stamp thereon. As a protection to the users of this currency against counterfeiting and other tricks, considerable money is expended in maintaining a Secret Service Bureau of Experts. Under the law, citizen manufacturers must depend to a great extent upon Trade-Marks and similar devices to protect themselves against counterfeit products—without the aid of "Government Detectives" or "Public Opinion" to assist them.

Consequently the "Consumer's Protection" against misrepresentation and "inferior quality" rests entirely upon the integrity and responsibility of the "Manufacturer."

A. G. Spalding & Bros. have, by their rigorous attention to "Quality," for thirty-three years, caused their Trade-Mark to become known throughout the world as a Guarantee of Quality as dependable in their field; as the U. S. Currency is in its field.

The necessity of upholding the guarantee of the Spalding Trade-Mark and maintaining the Standard Quality of their Athletic Goods, is, therefore, as obvious as is the necessity of the Government in maintaining a Standard Currency.

Thus each consumer is not only insuring himself but also protecting other consumers when he assists a Reliable Manufacturer in upholding his Trade-Mark and all that it stands for. Therefore, we urge all users of our Athletic Goods to assist us in maintaining the Spalding Standard of Excellence, by insisting that our Trade-Mark be plainly stamped on all athletic goods which they buy, because without this precaution our best efforts towards maintaining Standard Quality and preventing fraudulent substitution will be ineffectual.

Manufacturers of Standard Articles invariably suffer the reputation of being high-priced, and this sentiment is fostered and emphasized by makers of "inferior goods," with whom low prices are the main consideration.

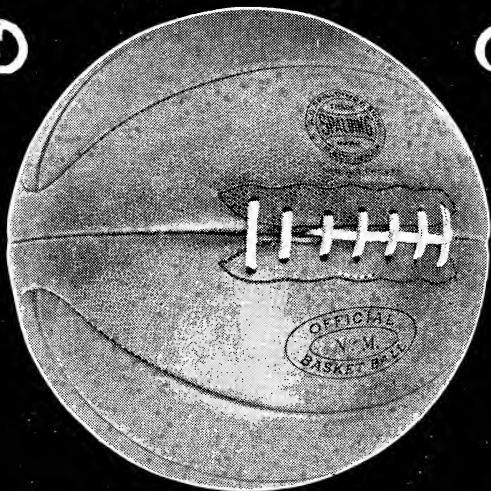

A manufacturer of recognized Standard Goods, with a reputation to uphold and a prices than a manufacturer of cheap and Quality depends principally upon
